EARHART RESCUE ARMADA SPEEDS TO POINT NORTH OF HOWLAND INDICATED BY MESSAGES

Nation's Holiday Costs 437 Lives; Autos Kill 247

Only Two Deaths Laid to Fireworks, an All-Time Low Record in the 30-Year Campaign to Reduce Such Fatalities.

104 ARE DROWNED,
AN 8-YEAR HIGH

84 Met Violent Fates
From Other Causes,
Taking Total to 91 More Than That of Last Year.

By the Associated Press.
America's Fourth of July accident fatalities soared to 437 tonight (Monday) as the 161st Independence Day anniversary celebration drew to a close. However, only two of the deaths were directly attributed to fireworks. The day's toll surpassed that of last year of 91.

Traffic accidents took the highest toll, 46 states reporting 247 deaths—47 more than were killed in highway accidents during the corresponding period last year.

104 Are Drowned.
Drowning fatalities climbed to 104, surpassing all other records in the past eight years with the exception of 1931 when 181 were drowned.

Eighty-four met violent deaths
from other causes.
The fireworks victims were Geraldine Mulvey, 8, Woonsocket,
R. I., and Julia Friess, 9, Baltimore, Md., both of whom died from burns suffered when their dresses were ignited by sparklers.
The Friess girl's death marked Baltimore's first fireworks fatality since July 4, 1935.

Michigan led in total fatalities with 30 and was tied with California in auto accident deaths with 17.

Nevada, Delaware and the District of Columbia reported no accidental deaths.

Hundreds Burned.
While the toll from fireworks brought near-achievement of a 30-year campaign to end such fatalities, hundreds of persons were treated in the country's hospitals for burns and other injuries caused by explosives.

Wild bullets from guns of celebrants, grade-crossing accidents, airplane crashes and industrial mishaps sent hundreds to hospitals for treatment. A total of 10 were killed in grade-crossing accidents last night in Minnesota, Kentucky, and Rhode Island.

The "safe and sane Fourth" drive was started in 1907 by James Keeley, then editor of a Chicago newspaper. Keeley initiated it after seeing how recurring explosions disturbed his sick daughter.

St. Simons Hotel, Club Are Destroyed by Fire

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 5.—(AP) Holiday visitors fled the new 40-room King-and-Prince hotel on St. Simons Island late today as flames swept the structure and the leborate King-and-Prince Club, destroying both.
Morgan Wynne, manager of the properties, said the damage would approximate $100,000. It was partly covered by insurance, he said.

The hotel was filled with holiday guests, all of whom escaped with their baggage.

A row of cottages north of the club were saved when the wind switched, carrying flames in the opposite direction.
The fire, originating in a small cupola this afternoon, first destroyed the club with its costly trappings and furniture, then leaped to the hotel.

Firemen said a defective wire might have caused the fire.

DR. DUNBAR ROY, NOTED PHYSICIAN, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Series of Heart Attacks Ends Distinguished Lifetime of Service Given by Native of Atlanta, 70.

Dr. Dunbar Roy, prominent Atlanta physician, died at 6 o'clock last night at a downtown hotel, following a six-week's siege of intermittent heart attacks. Dr. Roy was 70 years old.

He was first pronounced in danger last week and had been "low" ever since, doctors said. His condition grew out of infantile paralysis, following a series of heart attacks, it was disclosed.

Funeral services have been announced for 5 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill.

Dr. Roy practiced in Atlanta as an eye, ear, and nose specialist, and was professor of otolaryngology at Emory University before his resignation in 1924 because of his health. He was then made professor emeritus.

Born in Atlanta.
He was born in Atlanta at the close of the War Between the States, the son of Dr. Gustavus
Garrett Roy and the former Miss Flora Dillard, of Greensboro, Ala.

He is survived by his wife.
Palbearers who have been announced include Dr. Murdock Equin, Dr. W. S. Goldsmith, Dr.
B. Cline, Dr. W. S. Elkin, Dr. C.
G. Giddings, Dr. Carter Smith, Dr.
S. T. Barnett, Robert C. Alston,
Robert A. Smyth, Clarence Hill,
Richardson, Carl Lewis, William Hugh Richardson, Carl Lewis and Dr. S. A. Visasaka, all of Atlanta.

Dr. Roy attended Boys' High and was a member of the widely known class of 1883, and studied medicine at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

After studying his specialty a year in Europe, he returned to Atlanta and began his practice in 1893. He was made professor of eye, ear, nose and throat the same year at Southern Medical College.
He later was identified with the Atlanta Medical College, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and Emory University.

He held positions as president of the American Laryngological
Rhinothological and Otolological Society in 1923, and as vice president of the American Laryngological Society. He received Phi Beta Kappa membership from the University of Virginia the same year.

Captain During War.
He served as captain in the medical service of this country during the World War, and was in charge of medical activities for the southern states.

The specialist was a world traveler and readers of The Constitution in the past were kept informed of his visits to far countries through the columns of this paper.

Dr. Roy contributed many illuminating and interesting articles on trends he noted in European countries. He was known as an astute observer, his stories being colorful commentaries on every phase of life and politics he encountered away from American shores.

Dr. Roy was the oldest practicing physician born in Atlanta. His

Fireworks Discharged Into Crowd Injure Dozen at St. Simons Beach

ST. SIMONS, Ga., July 5.—(AP)
A $500 fireworks display was prematurely discharged into a crowd of 2,000 persons here tonight.

Mabrey Smith, in charge of the display, estimated a dozen persons were injured.

The premature display occurred on the beach where a huge crowd had gathered to watch the bursting of sky rockets, air bombs and Roman candles.

Several of the injured were wounded when they ran into parked cars in their haste to retreat. An immediate check did not reveal any victims admitted to hospitals.

Drug stores were reported

Amelia's Husband Appeals to Navy---Mrs. Noonan Keeps Vigil at Radio

When Amelia Earhart failed to bring her plane to Howland Island, her husband, George Palmer Putnam, asked the navy to aid in hunting for her. Putnam is shown as he telephoned to Washington, Commander V. H. Ragsdale, naval reserve, is making notes.

Mrs. Fred J. Noonan, whose navigator husband is lost somewhere in the South Pacific on a globe-girdling flight with Amelia Earhart, spent long hours waiting for news of her husband. Here she is before her radio, composed but anxious, waiting for latest reports.

TWO PLANES PASS ON ATLANTIC DASH

U. S. Clipper En Route to Ireland, British Boat Nears Newfoundland.

NEW YORK, (Tuesday) July 6.
(UP)—Two commercial flying boats were believed to have passed each other late last night on trail-blazing flights across the Atlantic preliminary to regular passenger service between the United States and Europe.

The Pan American Clipper III and the British imperial flying boat Caledonia were estimated by officials of Pan American Airways to have passed each other at 11
p. m. (10 p. m. Atlanta time) on their 1,994-mile flights to the two continents.

The American ship was en route from Botwood Harbor, Newfoundland, for Foyne, Ireland, and the Caledonia was flying from the latter point to Botwood.

Pan American reported at the time the ships passed each other the Caledonia was 1,043 miles out from Ireland and the Clipper III 952 miles out from Botwood. The American ship was 67 miles north of the British boat.

The Clipper III was flying at an altitude of 11,000 feet and was maintaining a speed of approximately 155 miles per hour. The British ship was at a lower altitude and was making 135 miles an hour.

In London the British air ministry denied reports emanating from St. Johns, Newfoundland, that the Caledonia had turned back toward Ireland.

The Clipper III, skippered by Captain Harold E. Gray, veteran Pan American flier, took off from Botwood harbor at 5:11 p. m. (4:11 Atlanta time). The Caledonia took off from Foyne at 3:57 p. m. (2:57 Atlanta time.)

Psychiatrists Called To Forestall Insanity Plea by WPA Worker.

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—(UP)
The state tonight marshalled a corps of psychiatrists who doctored Robert S. James, "Rattlesnake" life-killer, to the gallows, to forestall an insanity defense by Albert Dyer, shriveled, 32-year-old WPA worker who confessed strangling three tiny girls on Baldwin Hills last Saturday.

The slender killer, trapped by morbid curiosity when he attended the funeral of his victims, was held under guard in the skyscraper jail at the city hall after he babbled a complete confession.

Detective Leroy Sanderson, credited with tracing the crime to Dyer, said reports of a search for a second man in the case—an "amateur investigator"—were without significance.

"There is only one man in this case," he said. "And Dyer is the man."

Quietest Holiday in Years Passed by City and State

Remarkably Few Accidents and Injuries Reported by Police; Rain Falls to Dampen Fete Spirit of Thousands of Atlantans; Arrest Total Is Low.

The quietest and safest holiday in years was recorded in Atlanta, Fulton county and the state generally yesterday as police and hospitals reported remarkably few accidents and injuries to the thousands who celebrated the Glorious Fourth on July 5.

At St. Simons, however, more than a dozen persons were injured last night when a fireworks display was prematurely discharged into a crowd of 2,000 persons. An immediate check did not reveal any victims admitted to hospitals, although drug stores were reported jammed with persons getting first aid for minor burns.

Rain and electrical storms marred the day for many but in Atlanta holiday celebration was much in evidence, with Lakewood park and theaters reporting good crowds while several thousands saw the Atlanta Crackers beat Memphis 7 to 6 in a 10-inning game.

Rain Cuts Attendance.
Though park officials said the swimming pools had some good business in the afternoon and the golf courses saw many foursomes celebrating their independence by slaving to improve their games, rain which fell almost constantly yesterday morning materially reduced the number resorting to public parks for recreation.

A "march on Atlanta" was begun yesterday afternoon from hundreds of points throughout the south by vacationists who had to scurry home last night in order to be ready for resumption of work this morning. Most stores, the banks, the state capitol, the courthouse and the city hall were closed yesterday.

"This has been the quietest holiday in years," said a police official.

3 Killed, 5 Hurt By Gas Line Blast

JEFFERSON, Texas, July 5.— (AP)—A condenser on a high pressure gas line exploded in the midst of 100 spectators here today, killing three men and injuring five gravely. The crowd was watching drillers trying to bring in an oil

F. D. R. DISCOUNTS RADICAL CHANGES

America Will Keep Its 'Feet on the Ground,' He Tells New Yorkers.

MOUNT MARION, N. Y., July 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in an impromptu speech in this little Dutch village today contrasted the American form of government with dictatorships and assured the "newer generation" this country would keep its "feet on the ground" in meeting new conditions.

Speaking at an outdoor fundraising festival of the Dutch Reformed church, the President also told his shirt-sleeved audience of several thousand that he had been a "good Fourth" and he wished the United States could pass on some of its "poise" and "fundamentals" of democracy to other nations of dictatorial and militaristic tendencies.

It was a real picnic for the President, who motored the 25 miles here from Hyde Park, crossing the Hudson river at Rhinecliff.
He stayed only about 15 minutes beside the little white framed church and a flag decorated platform, the President spoke through a microphone he held in his hand.

He left late tonight for Washington, having spent five days at his Dutch county estate on the Eastern Shore.

Sitting on the top of the ton-neau of his large open car parked beside the little white framed
church and a flag decorated platform, the President spoke through a microphone he held in his hand.
He referred to the complexities of government today as greater than those of the pioneer days, adding:

"I hope the new generation, just like the older generation, will realize that in meeting these new conditions we are not changing the fundamentals of the American form of government."

"In my belief, we are always

New York Judge, Native Atlantan, Calls Sit-Down Strikes Indefensible

Sit-down strikes are a clear invasion of property rights and if generally recognized mean the eventual destruction of all possessions of the country which are not represented. He pointed out that New York state has four members on the supreme court bench if Justice MacReynolds is considered a New Yorker. He was originally from Tennessee, but moved to New York.

"The first bitter political campaign I remember was the set-to-between Cleveland and Blaine," the judge said, "but that was nothing compared to the recent presidential campaign bitterness. Justice presumes a certain amount of courage. It takes courage to take the side of immutable things and

In discussing the proposed changes in the United States su-court is "geographically lop-sided," because there are certain sections of the country which are not represented. He pointed out that

on the supreme court bench if Jus-

Garbled Signals Place Two Fliers 281 Miles Away

Three Navy Operators Hear "281 North Howland . . . Call KHAQQ . . . Beyond North . .
Don't Hold With Us Much Longer . . Above
Water . . Shut Off . ."; Direct Carrier Wave Replies to Dot-Dash Request Received.

BRITISH FREIGHTER TURNS TO RESCUE
ONLY 90 MILES FROM AREA REPORTED

Itasca Proceeds Under Forced Draft From Island and Minesweeper on Way; Aircraft Carrier Lexington Due at Honolulu Thursday Where It Will Loose Planes for Search.

ADDITIONAL EARHART NEWS IN PAGES 9 AND 10

HONOLULU, July 5.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Itasca, racing to a position north of lonely Howland Island in the search for Amelia Earhart, reached the area tonight but made no immediate report of any findings.

HONOLULU, July 5.—(AP)—Ragged radio signals sent an armada of rescue ships racing toward a mystery spot 281 miles north of Howland island today in the hope that Amelia Earhart is alive and afloat in mid-Pacific.

The cutter Itasca intercepted the fresh yet cryptic message and put out at top speed for a position north of the tiny island target which Miss Earhart and her navigator missed Friday on an ocean-spanning flight.

The British freighter Moorby was believed only 90 miles from the indicated objective and it altered its course to hurry in that direction.

Navy Mine Sweeper Speeds to Rescue.
The navy mine sweeper Swan likewise was proceeding under forced draft. The 250-foot, gleaming white Itasca, a heavy smoke attesting its speed, was bettering 15 knots.

Howland island, a bare dot of land, was the goal of Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, on a 2,570-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea. Short of fuel, harassed by headwinds, they were cut down in their flight. Weak, garbled radio messages from the $80,000 plane did not give their position, nor tell whether the ship alighted in the tropic seas or reached the comparative safety of one of the numerous tiny coral atolls.

Three Operators Intercept Message.
But today, at 7:12 a. m. (Atlanta time) three radio operators at the Wakeup naval station heard a message they believed came from the globe-girdling plane. It was fragmentary; faint words between others that had been blotted out by static.

The operators pieced it together to read:
"281 north Howland . . . call KHAQQ (the call letters of the Earhart plane) . . . beyond north . . . don't hold with us much longer . . . above water . . . shut off."

From this message came widely varying interpretations. At Pearl Harbor lieutenant suggested it meant the plane was sinking; the coast guard said it might mean radio transmission from the ship was being "shut off" by failing batteries.

Husband Believes Plane Is on Reef.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, said he believed the words "above water," indicated certainly the plane had landed on a reef, that the gasoline, required to turn the right motor to provide radio transmission, was being exhausted, and that his wife and Noonan were somewhere north of Howland.

The coast guard here messaged Washington, D. C., that independent bearings appeared to agree with the garbled transmission from the plane, that Miss Earhart and Noonan were approximately 281 miles north of Howland. The Itasca said
"We will arrive at the indicated position this afternoon about 1700 (11:30 p. m. Atlanta time)."

Fastest Navy Vessels on Way.

From San Diego, Cal., swinging down the great arc toward the tropic waters, the navy's fastest vessels hastened to the Howland island area. The rescue fleet was led by the $40-000,000 airplane carrier Lexington, mothering 57 pursuit planes. Accompanying the carrier were the destroyers Drayton, Lamson and Cushing.

From Honolulu the battleship Colorado, bearing three navy planes with great cruising range, was speeding southward.

As the vessels draw near the search area, planes will leave

RIVER FREIGHT SURVEY TO BE STARTED TODAY

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 5.—(P)—

T. Q. Ashburn Jr., special investigator for the Inland Waterways Corporation, announced he will begin a survey tomorrow to determine the amount of potential freight that might be carried on federal barges between Augusta and Savannah. If the survey shows enough freight will be available, the Inland Waterways Corporation is expected to recommend to the War Department that a barge line be placed in service on the Savannah river.

Veteran Member of Force on Duty 32 Years Passes Away at Home.

William A. Chewning, retired member of the Atlanta police department, died at his residence, 644 Berne street, yesterday morning after a long illness. He was 65.

Mr. Chewning joined the force on October 11, 1904, and retired last September. He began as what was then called "superintendent" of the patrol, was later sergeant or "roundsman," a rank now called lieutenant, and later detective.

He worked on call at the time of his retirement. Friends on the force say of him that although small, he rarely failed to "break his man."

He is survived by his wife, a son, C. R. Chewning; a daughter, Mrs. C. J. Dodd; three brothers, Thomas, Alfred and M. A. Chewning, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Lindsey.

The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon with the Rev. L. B. Jones officiating. Interment will be in the Fellowship cemetery at Tucker.

Policemen who will be pallbearers at his services are Captain G. T. Butler and Patrolmen J. D. Freeman, Oscar Tyson, J. B. Bishop, A. F. Duncan and J. T. Robertson.

MRS. MILTON YOUNG DIES AT LEXINGTON

Sister of Atlanta Attorney Frequently Visited Here.

Mrs. Milton Young, a sister of Jack J. Spalding, Atlanta attorney, died yesterday at her residence in Lexington, Ky., after an extended illness.

She was the wife of the late Milton Young, owner of the famous McGrathiana Stock Farm, breeders of racing horses.

Mr. Young, who has often been an Atlanta visitor, was 77. She had a wide circle of friends in this city.

She is survived by two daughters, Sister Spalding Young, a member of the sisters of Sacred Heart, St. Louis, and Mrs. Edward Sisk, Lexington; three sons, Milton Young, Jack Spalding Young and Tom B. Young, all of Lexington, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in Lexington and burial will follow in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding and Mrs. W. H. Schroeder of Atlanta, left yesterday to attend the services.

MRS. LOWDEN DIES

Wife of Former Governor Found Dead in Bed.

OREGON, Ill., July 5.—(P)—Mrs. Florence Pullman Lowden, 69, wife of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, was found dead in bed early today at her home, Sinissippi Farm, near here.

A maid at the home gave out the first word of Mrs. Lowden's death. She said it was unexpected and that Mrs. Lowden had not been ill.

Mrs. Lowden was the daughter of George M. Pullman, multimillionaire sleeping car manufacturer from whom she inherited a large fortune. She married Lowden on August 29, 1896. Three daughters and a son survive.

With her husband, who has been a prominent figure in councils of the Republican party for many years, Mrs. Lowden returned recently from an extensive tour in Europe.

STATE COST SAGS MILLION IN YEAR

Functions of Government Show Increase in 1936.

The cost of running the state government dropped nearly a million dollars in 1936.

State Auditor Tom Wisdom's annual report, compiled in book form, showed Georgia spent $34,830,414.73 last year, including federal funds handled by state officials.

The total compared with costs of approximately $35,500,000 in 1935 and $43,337,000 in 1931. The per capita cost of all state functions last year was $11.98 compared with $11.26 in 1935.

NAZI, ITALIAN LABOR FORM CLOSE ACCORD

ROME, July 5.—(P)—Formation of a sweeping alliance between the government-controlled labor organizations of Italy and Germany was announced today.

The pact, signed by Tullio Cianetti, president of the Fascist Confederation of Industrial Workers, and Robert Ley, leader of the German labor front, was approved by the Italian and German governments.

MEMPHIS MINISTERS WILL FIGHT REPEAL

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 5.—(P)—The Memphis ministerial association endorsed today a campaign to defeat prohibition repeal at the referendum vote September 23.

The ministers named a committee to work with the United Dry Forces of Tennessee, Inc., to keep the state in the "dry" column.

Optometrists of Zone 4 of the Georgia Optometric Association will meet Thursday at 8:15 p. m. at the office, 83 Whitehall street, Dr. S. C. Outlaw, who will preside.

"Dangers to National Security" will be the subject of an address by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area and the third army, to feature the patriotic program of the weekly Kiwanis luncheon at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Ansley hotel.

Miss Ruth Blair, executive secretary of the Atlanta Historical Society, will address citizens at 12:30 o'clock today on "Objectives of the Atlanta Historical Society." The luncheon will be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Mrs. Mabel B. Wheeler will speak on "Some Phases of Social Security" at the Lions' luncheon today at the Henry Grady hotel.

Rotarians announced yesterday the omission of their luncheon meeting this week because of the Independence Day week end.

FILTRATION PLANT TO DOUBLE OUTPUT

Increase in Water Rates Will Finance Construction of Additional Units.

Financed by an increase in water rates, Atlanta is now building a filtration plant designed to more than double the city water works capacity in times of emergency.

W. Zode Smith, head of the water works, declared yesterday.

Reports from Washington that the PWA will not approve a loan of $228,000 and an outright grant of $186,454 for the filtration project will have no bearing on the repairs and improvements now under way at the water works, Smith said. Application for PWA aid in building the filtration plant was made several years ago contingent upon the city putting up collateral for the loan through issuance of bonds. The bonds were not voted.

Water rates were increased 30 per cent this year under authorization of the legislature to renovate the entire water works system where needed over a five-year period. Condemnation proceedings preliminary to actual construction of new filter basin are already under way and engineering plans for the project are being compiled.

RIVER NEAR CAIRO CLAIMS 3 VICTIMS

Child, Salesman, Grandfather Drowned.

CAIRO, Ga., July 5.—(P)—Three persons were drowned today in the Ocklawaha river, two of them while attempting rescues.

The dead are: J. B. Murphy, about 55, salesman, formerly of Ormond, Fla.; Fay Edward Brookins, 8, his grandson.

The Brookins child was the first to drown. He drifted into deep water while swimming in the river. The grandfather went after him and he, too, drowned in the deep channel.

Collins responded to a broadcast appeal for aid in finding the bodies. He dived in, and failed to come up.

Eventually all three bodies were recovered.

The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doss C. Brookins. Murphy is survived by his widow and several children. Collins left a widow and two small children.

ATLANTAN TO HEAD VILLA RICA BANK

Sam C. Dobbs Is Choice of Directors.

Election of Sam C. Dobbs, Atlanta capitalist and businessman, as president of the Bank of Villa Rica was announced yesterday following the annual meeting of bank directors last week.

Born and reared in Villa Rica, Mr. Dobbs became head of its only bank although he will not return his official residence there.

He succeeds S. O. Fielder, who retired after 38 years' connection with the bank, first as cashier and in recent years as president.

Mr. Fielder was a former president of the Georgia Bankers' Association.

WATERMELONS FIND PROFITABLE SALES

Heavy Movement From Georgia Belt Reported by Market Supervisor.

Market Supervisor Hamilton Ralls reported yesterday watermelons from Georgia were moving in heavy quantity at "profitable prices."

Highest grades brought from $75 to $90 a car at the tracks over the week end, and the loadings promised to be heavy if rainy weather did not interfere, he said.

He reported loadings at Statesboro and Barwick over the week end were approximately 75 cars each, and at Boston, about 50 cars. Of all shipments in the entire melon belt, he announced, cash prices were paid at the track for all except two cars which moved on consignment.

The McRae section started loadings yesterday with prospects of shipping between 1,500 and 2,000 cars during the season, Ralls reported.

The watermelon control committee already has banned interstate shipment of all melons outside United States grades one and two. Prices for grade two melons range around $80 a car, Ralls said. The ban on lower grades will continue until July 15.

The committee has estimated shipments this year will pass the 10,000 car mark.

Ralls said the crop this year is about 10 per cent above last year in quantity, with quality averaging high. The acceptance of melons at the track indicates to him, he said, a good market.

He reported small shipments continuing from Florida, and the movement beginning from South Carolina with Georgia the heaviest shipper at present.

Ray Cutter Visits Vast Ford Plants

RAY CUTTER.

Ray Cutter, popular Ford salesman with the Wade Motor Company, 399 Spring street, N. W., has just returned from a visit to the great Ford Factory, and Greenfield village in Detroit, where he made an extensive study of the Ford methods and procedure, to better serve his friends and clients here in Atlanta.

Mr. Cutter stated that he now feels he is better equipped to serve you than at any time in his entire long career of retailing cars in Atlanta. He earnestly solicits the support of his many friends who have helped him in the past.

Upon his return he stated that Ford prices are now the lowest in years, and all indications are that prices will advance at any time, as the price of labor and materials have already been materially increased. Call him now and let the Wade Motor Company make you a proposition on a new Ford V-8, "60" or "85." The phone number is Walnut 6720; the residence phone is HE. 6554-W.—(adv.)

COUNCIL TO WEIGH BAN ON FIREWORKS AT MEETING TODAY

Physical Examination for Domestic Help Also Will Be Considered.

Ordinances to prohibit fireworks anywhere in Atlanta and to require physical examinations for all domestic servants are scheduled to be considered this afternoon by city council.

A finance sheet amendment to allocate a total of $5,700 for public improvements, vacation funds and employment of an ambulance driver and a coal inspector will be taken up by council also if Mayor Hartsfield and Alderman Ed A. Gilliam approve suggested transfers of funds.

B. Graham West, city comptroller, said yesterday he had "found" enough money to cover the expenditures recommended Friday by the finance committee. Alderman Roy E. Callaway and Councilman Frank Wilson will sponsor the ban on fireworks, which once passed council but was vetoed by Mayor Hartsfield to permit a public hearing. Councilmen said yesterday they predicted the ban would be adopted as a means of reducing the deaths and injuries from fireworks.

Callaway will introduce the ordinance to require domestic servants to take physical examinations. "This is a measure to aid in stamping out social diseases," he said.

Ex-Georgian Nurses 'Man in Iron Lung'

ATHENS, Ga., July 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Crosby Winters, formerly of Athens, has been placed in charge of one of modern medicine's most celebrated cases—that of "the man in the iron lung."

Mrs. Winters, formerly Miss Margaret S. Campbell, is a daughter of the late Professor J. P. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell. Her husband died many years ago and Mrs. Campbell moved from Athens, but both she and her daughter have been back here several times on visits. Professor Campbell was head of the biology department of the University of Georgia.

Mrs. Winters was graduated from Athens High school and afterwards entered the nursing profession. Frederick B. Snite Jr. is "the man in the iron lung." He was stricken with infantile paralysis in Peiping, China, while on a world tour. His life endangered due to faulty respiration, Snite was placed in a specially constructed "iron lung" which made him breathe mechanically, and brought to the United States.

are funds for physical improvements to the social disease hospital, widening Twelfth street between Juniper and Peachtree streets, and to provide vacations for employees in several city departments whose work cannot be doubled up. Councilman John White's resolution to authorize procuring rights of way for widening Piedmont avenue near Westminster drive, and Peachtree street at Ponce de Leon avenue will be considered also.

They Will Head 'Y' Units in University City Next Year

The trio shown above have been selected to head the "Y" units in Athens for the next year. Left to right, they are Alice Cabanis, of Athens, Co-ordinate College Y. W. C. A.; Anderson Roddenberry, of Macon, University of Georgia Y. M. C. A., and Isabelle Reid, of Madison, University of Georgia Y. W. C. A.

CARRIERS DISCUSS WATSON MEMORIAL

Thompson Re-elected President of Foundation Body at Session.

THOMSON, Ga., July 5.—Gordon H. Thompson, of Jackson, was re-elected president of the Thomas E. Watson Rural Free Delivery Foundation at a meeting of its board of governors, held in the McDuffie county courthouse here today.

One of the highlights of the meeting was a brief talk by J. T. Pender, of Williston, S. C., vice president of the South Carolina Rural Letter Carriers' Association, who pledged the co-operation of his organization in the Georgians' campaign to buy and restore the estate of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson as a memorial shrine.

Members of the board of governors representing every section of the state submitted reports on the progress of their drive for funds to be used for the purchase and restoration of "Hickory Hill."

Colonel J. T. West, of Thomson, associate counsel for the Foundation, explained the purpose of the organization and the part the people of McDuffie county can be expected to take in the endeavor. Elections resulted as follows: New members of the board of governors: Fourth district, W. W. Ware, of Woodbury; sixth district, Cecil F. Hall, of Sandersville; L. W. Fordham, of Gibson, and T. A. Fletcher, of Forsyth; ninth district, John I. Smith, of Clarksville; H. P. Matthews, of Cumming, and Golden Puckett, of Buford; tenth district, J. C. Latham, of Thomson; B. R. Pringle, of Deering, and H. J. Arradale, of Colbert. All other members of the board were re-elected.

President Thompson was designated to attend the South Carolina Rural Letter Carriers' Association convention July 21-23. The approximately 50 carriers' representatives present visited the old Watson home after the meeting.

DROWNS IN INCH OF WATER. TWIN FALLS, Idaho, July 5.—(AP)—An 8-month-old baby who drowned in an inch of water was Idaho's only reported Fourth of July fatality. The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mares, rolled from a blanket down a slight incline into a shallow stream.

Assaults Sitting Strikes

principles. The person who trims and tacks seldom reaches his goal. It takes courage to plunge through a storm.

Need Courageous Judges. "We need courageous judges and law enforcement agencies. The two most intolerable things to come before the public in recent months was a statement attributed to a well-known financier who was quoted as saying 'tax dodging is not a matter of immorality, and the sit-down strike."

"The first statement was denied. As to sit-down strikes, it appears they are crumbling under their own weight. I was vice chairman of the War Relations Board on the labor side and was regarded as at least fair to labor. I have always been regarded as fair to labor. "There is no justification either in morals or in policy for sit-down strikes. They are a clear invasion of property rights. If they ever become recognized, they will mean the eventual end of all possessions. If they become generally recognized, their effect would become so sweeping that I hesitate to predict what would happen. "Sit-down strikes are indefensible. There is no justification for them."

"It seems to me that the time for tolerance has arrived in American politics. Politics seems to have now reached a point where candidates and their friends cannot discuss an issue without violating every libel and slander law on the books."

Concessions in Order. "When two forces are working towards the same goal, sometimes it is better to make concessions to accomplish that end." When news men arrived, Judge Black was reading Hector Bolitho's "King Edward VIII." He said he is a great admirer of the former English king. His first question concerned Miss Amelia Earhart's safety.

"I want to say that I along with the rest of Georgia and the nation miss Honorable Clark Howell, late editor of The Constitution," Judge Black asserted. "We all miss men like that, and I do not want to pass up an opportunity to pay tribute to the memory of a great man and a fine friend."

"It may seem that my views themselves are intolerant on certain lines, but we must feel strongly in defense of our fundamentals of government and their preservation."

The late Eugene R. Black, who was governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, was a brother of Judge Black. The judge is president of the Southern Society of New York City, and has been a member of the bench for many years. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Black, of Atlanta.

GAIN CITED IN VALUE OF FARM PRODUCTS

Jarnagin Urges Greater Progress Through Application of Chemistry.

PINE MOUNTAIN VALLEY, Ga., July 5.—(AP)—Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, of the State College of Agriculture, declared today the value of Georgia farm products "is now more than double what it was at the low point of the depression."

Increasing uses of agricultural products through the chemurgy movement, he predicted in an address here, will go far in advancing industrialization of the south and elimination of unemployment.

Other Fields Opened. An extended use of agricultural products into fields not competing with foods and clothing will "provide a cash market for the ever-increasing production of the fields, forests and orchards," he contended.

Manufacture of plastics, lacquer and other similar products were cited by him as fields not competing with food and clothing, and he added:

"Within the next few years we should see an appreciable manufacture of paper from pine trees, starch and industrial alcohol from sweet potatoes, grain and cane. The tung oil industry is yearly taking on larger proportions."

Value of Products. He said Georgia's farm products in 1936 were worth $283,061,000, an increase of 13.3 per cent over the $249,557,000 figure for 1935.

The rate of increase was greater than that of either the United States or the south as a whole, he declared.

He classed as one of "the most significant changes" in Georgia's farm life the recent growth of diversified farming and expansion of the livestock industry.

Jarnagin said the state produces only 35 per cent of the beef it consumes, 60 per cent of the poultry and dairy products and five per cent of the lamb and mutton.

26,000 BOY SCOUTS CELEBRATE FOURTH

Two-Hour Rainstorm All But Drowns Out Encampment; Lads Are Cheerful.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—A two-hour rainstorm failed today to quench the Fourth of July ardor of 26,000 Boy Scouts encamped in the capital.

Though the downpour made the national jamboree camp look something like a quagmire, as soon as the sun reappeared, the Scouts dug deeper ditches around their tents, hustled dry straw for bedding and were all ready for the city's big display of fireworks.

A Scout from Corpus Christi, Texas, remarked although "our tent is pretty wet and the ground is covered with water, don't worry, we'll get all right."

During the heaviest downpour, 5,000 Scouts participated in a memorial service at the Arlington cemetery amphitheater. They heard Dr. Ray Wyland, director of education in the Scouts' national council, urge all the boys rededicate their lives "to the service of mankind and the defense of every human right and the correction of every human wrong."

Canadian Scouts laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and placed another at the Cross of Sacrifice honoring Americans who died in the service of the Canadian army during the World War.

The 900 Sea Scouts spent several hours preparing for a regatta on the Potomac river. Others went on sightseeing trips.

DR. HARDIN FUNERAL IS HELD AT CHAPEL

Last rites for Dr. Melvin Hardin, osteopathic physician, were conducted yesterday afternoon at Spring Hill chapel by the Rev. B. T. Fraser and the Rev. Edward G. Mackay. Burial was in Crown Hill mausoleum.

Dr. Hardin, the first practicing osteopath in Georgia, died Sunday. He aided in obtaining the Georgia law allowing osteopaths to practice full major surgery in the state. He was 74 and resided at the Pershing Point apartments.

LORRAINE MAYFIELD WINS BEAUTY TITLE

Crowned 'Miss Atlanta' in Contest Held at Lakewood Park.

Miss Lorraine Mayfield was crowned "Miss Atlanta" for 1937 last night at the Southeastern Fair and will be given a trip to Atlantic City, N. J., early in September to compete for the Miss America title and a movie contract which awaits the winner of the national contest.

Miss Mayfield won Monday's finals over a field of some 30-odd contestants and before more than 5,000 spectators. Miss Joel Whitlock was the runner-up, with Miss Inez Cooper winning third place. Others in the finals Monday night were Miss Lillian L. Brooks, Miss Bernice Clark, Miss Connie Boyd and Miss Janelle Davis.

Misses Mayfield, Whitlock and Cooper were presented with trophies by Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair, sponsors of the contest.

Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court; Miss Loyce York, Miss Atlanta for 1936; Jack Rand, John T. Marler, alderman; John Sloan, racing promoter, and Mrs. Wynona Bell, of Miami, Fla., were judges.

It required some 30 minutes after the contest was over to determine the winner, so close were the figures. The packed crowd in the grandstand also had much to do with selecting the winner by their applause.

Jack Marco, director of The Constitution's movie talent hunt, and Doris Brown, winner of the Miss Birmingham title in 1935, and Miss Miami Beach in 1937 were honor guests on the stage.

BRITISH SOLDIERS MASS IN HOLY LAND

Martial Law Looms in Fear of Jewish-Arab Riots Over Partition.

JERUSALEM, July 5.—(UP)—Great Britain mobilized the greatest military force seen in Palestine since the World War and prepared to establish martial law if Jews and Arabs riot because of the British royal commission recommendations for partition of the Holy Land.

Hand bills proclaiming martial law already have been printed in Arabic, Hebrew and English in anticipation of disorders when the report is announced within a few days.

More than 8,000 British troops are in the Holy Land under command of Lieutenant General John Greer Dill and detachments are arriving daily from Egypt.

The giant battle cruiser Repulse, her decks packed with fighting planes, was dispatched to Haifa. The British have nearly 6,000 other armed men in readiness for an outbreak.

L. E. ARMSTRONG, 55, DIES IN COLUMBIA

Former Atlantan Agent for Southern Railway.

L. E. Armstrong, former Atlantan, died yesterday at his home in Columbia, S. C., at the age of 55. He had been in failing health for several months.

A former chief clerk of the Southern railway here, Mr. Armstrong went to Columbia as agent for the Southern railway. He later resigned that position to join the staff of the chamber of commerce there.

Funeral services will be held here at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Oakland cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Ed Still, H. A. Fife, John Manget, David Ungar, C. G. Walker and W. E. Dunn Jr.

COUSIN OF AMELIA FRACTURES KNEE CAP

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, July 5.—(AP)—Miss Borden Earhart, 17, of Council Bluffs, second cousin of Amelia Earhart, lost an aviator, suffered a fractured knee cap in an automobile accident last night. Her grandfather and the father of the flyer were brothers.

HOW EXPLORER KEEPS COOL IN PANAMA JUNGLE

Same method works here for people that like to cool off and keep cool

Gregory Mason, noted jungle explorer, says: "Trudging through tropical wilderness under the scorching sun, I rely on vitalizing tea to carry me on. Tea steps up my vitality—always gives that lasting coolness in the most torrid climate."

The difference between tea and other so-called cooling drinks is this: Tea does more than merely quench thirst. Tea actually LOWERS the body temperature. Its cooling effect is more LASTING.

For full, delicious flavor, select a good brand of Orange Pekoe from India, Ceylon, and Java-Sumatra.

F.D.R. MAY BE ASKED TO BARE TAX RETURN

Senate Committee Studies Offer To Permit Refutation of Charges.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(UP)—President Roosevelt may be asked tomorrow if he wishes to bare his tax returns before the joint congressional investigating committee in reply to charges by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, and other New Dealers used costly estates to slice income levies, it was announced tonight. The committee headed by Representative Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, will go into secret session tomorrow to plot the future course of the inquiry. Whether Fish, who stated from the house floor he can prove Mr. Roosevelt and other high administration officials have avoided federal tax payments through the use of devices which the President condemned in a message to congress, will be summoned for questioning will be decided tonight at that meeting.

The plan to let Mr. Roosevelt's own tax returns reply to the Fish accusations was discussed informally among Democratic members on the committee over the holiday. They also discussed the proposal with treasury officials who agreed that it might be the solution of an embarrassing problem.

TIME FOR LEVEL-HEADEDNESS

"Everyone is mad or scared or both," Raymond Clapper, Washington correspondent, comments in a recent column. This state of mind is characteristic not only of the United States. Abroad, important persons are talking the same sort of hysterical patter. Bernard Shaw wants to lynch congress, and Stanley Baldwin is all for hewing down British extremists. The whole world has the jitters.

This condition is hard on democracy. Mr. Clapper observes. He might have gone further and said that it is particularly hard on democracy seeking a just accommodation in the field of labor disputes. So long as Mr. Girdler calls Mr. Lewis a Communist terrorist and Mr. Lewis refers to Mr. Girdler as a "heavily armed monomaniac who has gone berserk," we are likely to have more terrorism and monomania than we can stomach.

If it's the heat wave that has made so many persons eager for a short cut to the achievement of personal and partisan desire, the time has surely come for a supreme effort in every quarter to attain the mental poise and spiritual calm offsetting encroachments of the weather. Indeed, whatever the thermometer may record, that hour has struck, if we are to have a competent, satisfying treatment of the crucial issues now facing America and the world.

The President cries a plague upon both Little Steel and CIO. Out of patience with the wilfulness of these opponents, Mr. Roosevelt registers his disgust and in so doing speaks for millions of Americans similarly moved.

What is needed is reasonableness and efficient machinery for dealing with problems. This need is illustrated in the settlement which Governor Townsend, of Indiana, has just worked out between Inland Steel and the SWOC. He has struck upon a formula which might have been acceptable long ago. More imagination and ingenuity on the part of peacemakers to begin with might have molded truculence and obstinacy into a spirit of compromise.

As matters stand now, the CIO has had a serious rebuff in its campaign against Little Steel. What caused it to launch so rash a venture will perhaps never be known. Whether it was some underling who committed Mr. Lewis to so perilous an enterprise, or he himself conceived and planned it, is at present only the stuff of speculation. But that the CIO has experienced a setback, a serious setback, is beyond rational dispute. The fact that Mr. Lewis has called a conference of leading supporters in Washington this week has its own significance.

If this gathering should result in nothing more than a decision to fight along the same lines if it takes all summer, Mr. Lewis will have made what may prove a fatal mistake. For it will take more than the summer, it will take more strength than the CIO can muster, to make a success of such an undertaking. It would be monomania to persist in tactics that have so obviously antagonized public opinion. But the burden of shaping better labor relations does not rest exclusively upon the CIO. Mr. Girdler and his fellow bitter-enders have for the nonce the backing of an aroused public sentiment. The great middle class of Americans has risen to his rescue, but not because it has a particularly good opinion of his attitude. For the time being, he is the beneficiary of this revolt against ruthlessness as manifested by labor. But he can quickly undo himself by continuing to be high-handed and autocratic. He too will have to change his walk and conduct.

But even if Messrs. Lewis and Girdler show a hitherto invisible humility, the fact remains that there is a great deal for the federal government to do. The state of Michigan is about to put in operation a labor relations law which offers most of the benefits to labor of the Wagner act but goes beyond that point to give the employer and the unorganized worker a place in the sun. If such a proposal could be enacted in Michigan, congress should take a tip from Lansing and improve the national technique in the same behalf.

We have had enough of mass picketing and of other forms of violence in connection with labor's resort to economic force. We have had enough of the assumption in both camps that the public has no stake in their quarrels. We have had enough of the bulldozing in which both labor and capital indulge. The nation is justified in demanding a new deal on the industrial front.

It will have to be a deal in which might is not the equivalent of right, a deal emphasizing democracy in industry, but not to the extent of visiting injustice upon employers or confusion upon the country, a deal in which colliding interests are made subject to vigilant law, a deal which for human reasons gives the worker a progressively larger function and reward, but for democratic reasons insists that the well-being of the people as a whole must not be forgotten or injured.

There is no royal road to industrial peace, but we can at least make ready for a better day in this respect by calling for reasonableness from both worker and employer and for understanding and level-headedness from the rest of us.

There is no occasion to be mad or scared. There is every occasion to exhibit the decency and common sense which are supposed to have lifted the human being above the level of the ape.

ESSENTIALS OF EDUCATION

The statement by J. E. McDaniel, director of co-operative courses at Georgia Tech, that graduates of this classification stand better chance of securing employment, at higher salaries, after their training period ends than do the regular graduates, points to a practice which is becoming more common in the professions and industry every year.

This is the practice of requiring a certain amount of practical working experience as a direct, or associated, part of higher education.

It is recognized today that the training of the classroom, no matter how complete and excellent it may be, is necessarily deficient in the experience that can be acquired only in the workshop, the office or the field. The student may know all there is to know of book education, but until he has attempted to put that training in practice under actual conditions of day-to-day work, he is an unknown quantity in so far as value to an employer is concerned.

In addition to the technical experience to be acquired, there is a form of "hardening" that can only be secured by genuine work for a pay check. It is an acclimatization to daily conditions that must be achieved before the neophyte can hope to stand on his own feet in the workaday world.

In many industrial and professional organizations today opportunity is provided for the new graduate to secure this vital experience by periods of probationary employment which are actually an extension of the training begun in his college years. The abilities of the individual are thus discovered and adjustment to the job he is naturally fitted to fill is made at the threshold of his life career, thus averting many disappointments and discouragements of later life.

The "co-op" student gains this practical experience during his college years, instead of afterwards. By a "stagger" system, two co-op students alternate between the classroom and a job, which they hold jointly. While it requires longer to complete the requisite course for graduation, it is probable that, in the long run, the "co-op" student, by gaining his working experience while studying, loses no time in gaining his objective of a higher salary post in his chosen field. He likewise is better able to understand the textbooks of the classroom because he is able to link their teachings with the practical work with which he is thoroughly familiar.

THE SAFEST PLACE IN FUTURE WARS

If the experience of Bilbao is reliable indication, the safest place to be in future wars will be with the army in the front line of battle. Statistics compiled by neutral observers during the siege and conquest of the Basque city show that, while the combined death lists for both the insurgent and Loyalist armies during the struggle at Bilbao total only 6,500, the number of noncombatants—men, women and children—who were slaughtered in the city streets was 8,419. Most of these civilians were killed, it is stated, as they fled from their homes seeking refuge from the bombings and machine gun attacks of enemy planes.

War thus becomes not a conflict of armed men, but a slaughter of the innocents in their homes. Man's modern death-dealing devices are aimed, not at the army in the field, but at the little children and the mothers helpless in outraged sanctity of shell-torn homes.

The world, it is claimed, has improved since the days when fighting men wore armor, fought with clothed shafts from bows of oak and dealt death against each other, toe to toe, from whirling broadsides and crushing mace.

But the modern world must hang its head in shame as it sees the end of that chivalry that gave honor to the battlefield relegated to the pages of history. It must blush as it sees its warriors marching off to the butchery of the innocents.

A correspondent says Americans in Paris make more of Independence Day than do their compatriots at home. Which, of course, would be a seine fourth.

A mural in the modern style, completed by Raoul Dufy for the Paris fair, measures 195 by 30 feet. We can only say again: art is long.

Ordinarily, the war in Spain would make marvelous film material, but scenarists are up a tree for a happy ending.

They say India's new 600-page constitution seems to cover all the requirements, except that its brave defenders read it first.

Then there was the absent-minded trailer dweller who threw away his residence and chugged off in a salmon can.

PROTECT YOUR HOMES

(From the Athens Banner-Herald.)

This is vacation season and those who are anticipating closing their homes for a few weeks of a month should take every precaution to prevent burglars from entering during the absence of the family. Burglars are always on the lookout for homes of people that are away. They have more time to work and less danger of being detected. The Association of Casualty and Surety Executives have issued the following warnings to those who expect to be away from home during the summer:

"1. Lock securely all doors, windows or other entrances to the house.
"2. Inform the people that your house will be empty. They can keep watch on it and try the doors and windows at regular intervals.
"3. Take with you or lock securely all jewelry, silverware, furs, valuable clothing and other articles easily converted into cash by a thief.
"4. Be sure to suspend all deliveries, such as milk, papers, mail. A heap of newspapers or milk bottles on a porch are sure signs that a house is unoccupied."

Many burglaries that are being committed should be a warning to everyone and unusual precautions should be taken before leaving in order to make your home as safe as possible from entrance by these criminals.

RUSSIA—AT HOME AND ABROAD

Readers of the Russian news, censored, ill informed and frankly inconclusive as it is, can reach only one of three conclusions. Either (1) Dictator Stalin has gone wild in the manner of an oriental despot in a blood purge of his personal enemies, fearing a threat to his personal power from Russian patriots who are convinced that progress demands a radical change or (2) German and Japanese agents have been spectacularly successful in undermining the morale throughout all Russia or (3) the men who made the Bolshevik revolution and who have been for 20 years to world admiration "the great Russian revolutionaries" here and elsewhere are all scoundrels, traitors, plotters and pure criminals.

This column does not pretend to know what the truth is. American, British and other foreign correspondents who have been in Russia for years do not know what it is and frankly say so. Also, we have a relatively small number of people informing us upon Russia who have any degree of impartiality. Most of our information comes from people who may be American citizens, but whose adopted spiritual country is Russia, and who are passionately and partially engaged in its ideological fights. We have our Trotskyists and our Stalinists arguing it out right in New York. "New Masses" which is Stalinist, assures us that the wrecked Trotskyists were at work in the mayoralty elections in Minneapolis; that they control the Minneapolis section of the Socialist party; that they are opposed to the Farmer-Labor party on the ground that it is an obstacle to revolution, while the Farmer-Labor party, which the Communists support in Minnesota, claims by inference to be a much surer method of bringing about revolution. And taking its cue from Russia, the Stalinist "New Masses" accuses the Trotskyist faction of making an alliance with "class enemies" by supporting the Democratic candidate, although the Communists support the Democrats elsewhere.

The transference of a Russian ideological struggle to other shores is one of the greatest hindrances to an intelligent, realistic labor organization and policy in political democracies, and is a vigorous breeder of vigilantism. The American worker is being asked to enlist himself in movements which are alibis for something never openly stated, for policies which are made with a continual eye on far-distant events in Russia, Germany and Spain. He is not asked to join "Communists" or to join "progressives" or "liberals." And if he happens to think that neither Trotsky nor Stalin is a liberal or holds the key to policies which will give organized labor its happiest position in the American democracy he is branded as "Fascist."

Yet the whole Popular-Front movement is nothing but an adjustment which the Russian government has made to its own peculiar international situation. On Hitler came into power the international policy of the Russian government under Stalin was what is now called Trotskyist. It vigorously opposed the collaboration of American, French or British Communists with any "progressive" or "liberal" factions. In Germany, for instance, it opposed collaboration with the middle-of-the-road parties to defeat Hitler for President, in behalf of Hindenburg. It looked forward then to a coalition with Hitler, and looks forward to now: the ultimate collaboration of Russia and Germany in a mutual exchange of goods and services, under a common banner. The only difference was that Russia then thought the banner would be "Communism," and Germany now intends that the banner shall be the swastika.

The complete volte-face which Russia has made since Hitler could hardly be accomplished without enormous differences of opinion. About these differences we know almost nothing, because differences of opinion about fundamental policy express themselves behind closed doors in Russia, in inner party councils. There must have been immense differences of opinion in the Russian army—as there are in the German—since for years the two armies had collaborated in a most intimate way. We may take it that those differences have not died down; that the prospect of a possible Russian-Spanish alliance of the possible loss of any British or French support in the event of a war with Germany confined to eastern Europe, seriously dismays the Red army leaders. And under despotisms all differences of opinion must, in translation into action must, of necessity, take the form of conspiracy.

But anyone who has followed the history of Russian foreign policy will be extremely chary of making predictions. More than that, he will know that his political opponents only to put their policies into effect. Thus, in 1927, he removed Trotsky in collectivizing farms. He has manipulated the Comintern into the most diametrically opposite direction. And if, tomorrow, he should come to an agreement with the Germans, relinquishing parts of Russia to them, in return for peace, this column would find it not at all surprising.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

It's hard,

Know which
To pay;
You best
And leave the rest

Bringing Down
What Went Up.

The Persian kitty had been missing for a week. Her distracted mistress had searched the highways and byways, the fields and the gardens, for miles around without success.

Then, one evening, a sharp-eyed neighbor discovered the cat, perched on a tree limb 50 feet above ground. Later review of remembered circumstance revealed the cat had been there the entire week, without food or water, chased to the high sanctuary by dogs.

Then arose the problem, how to get her down.

Supplicating cries of "Kitty, kitty, kitty" were of no avail. Tempting dishes of cat-favored food did not suffice. So they called the fire department.

The truck which responded didn't have a ladder of sufficient length. They raised the tree and one man climbed high enough to reach the cat with a pole. But all the proddings and physical persuasions weren't sufficient to tempt her off that limb to the tree trunk.

Then it seemed to be only two alternatives. Leave her there to starve or mercifully shoot her.

Then came

The Painter.

A telephone call revealed it was too late in the day for the phone company to have a limeman and his climbing irons available. They promised to try and induce one to come by the following morning.

Then along came a house painter and his ladders. He raised the tree high, and the problem feline back to earth.

At latest reports Pussy was contentedly lapping cream on the rear porch of her home.

Why is it that a cat can climb a tree but can't won't, come down again? Of course a cat is not noted for intelligence, regardless of what cat lovers claim. (There'll probably be outraged arguments against that sentence in the mails in a day or two.)

But it does seem anything with the instinct to go up, would have sufficient capacity to come down again. Doesn't it?

Popular

With Girls.

How many of you fellows ever patronize one of those soda fountains more popular with the female sex? The places where there are four or five girls lined up on the stools to every man.

Of course the dear things have every right to spend their nickels and dimes for liquid refreshments or ice cream or what have you. But it is somewhat irritating to be a male customer at this type of establishment.

In the first place the handsome youths in white aprons and jackets behind the counter naturally are more interested in attending to the desires of the fair patrons than they are in mere men. Not infrequently the man has to wait with what patience he can command while three or four girls, later arrivals than he, decide what they want—a lengthy process—before he can get to the counter. If he is deciding the clerk generally stands with a look of admiration on his face and makes suggestions in airy perilsage.

Again, even after the man is served, he has to drink or eat with a constant chatter of "He said and I said and she told me" going on in his ears. If he is casually crowded out of his fair share of the counter he had better keep silent and display no resentment. For, after all, he's a man, one of those unimportant creatures, my dear.

When time comes to pay his check, the male customer probably has to wait while the tall, dark and handsome clerk finishes comparing notes about that party the night before, with the saucy young thing in organdy at the right. And while the stern female of more years, to the left, demands more syrup in her drink and an extra soda cracker. Or something.

Then, having finally persuaded the factotum to hand over the check, the man again waits, as inconspicuously and humbly as he can, while three girls arrange for a joint date with their friend the beautiful cashier and while two of them discuss all the details for and against various types of nickel candy packages.

Ho, hum. Let's go to a tough joint where most women are afraid to enter.

General Johnson

General Recalls Opening of Oklahoma to Settlers in Early 1890's.

By HUGH S. JOHNSON.

Oklahoma's Tulsa, Okla., July 5.—My introduction to Oklahoma came to me as a very small boy in the midst of a depression so severe as to make the late unpleasantness seem like a brewers' strike. It was in the race that opened part of it.

Tens of thousands of busted families, victims of the great slump of the early 1890's, were lined up like race horses at a barrier, along a large part of the South Kansas line in the early autumn. And every night the starting pistol cracked and they were off to the greatest race for the greatest stakes in the world. Every known form of conveyance was used from race horses to cowpunches, from trotting sulks to four-line teams from shanks' mare to railroad trains—and one man drove an ostrich. The first person to reach and stake any particular quartersection was to own it.

They flooded over it in a thundering cloud of dust like the great cavalry charge in history. After the quarrels and killings of the first days of dispute, they dug in—each man on his own plot, a human prairie-dog town. A province had been populated by the destitute overnight.

There was almost no money. They were on the verge of winter. The land could produce nothing for almost a year. Somehow they survived. They dug holes or built sod huts to live in. They trapped or killed rabbits and geese, poached on government timber, got a little credit and pulled through. Within three years it was a fairly prosperous community.

Old Indian Territory was the western part of the old Oklahoma. The story of the eastern part—old Indian territory—is different. The writer also saw the beginning of that. Here civilization didn't race in like a flood on a single day. It slowly seeped in as white men bought individual Indian allotments. When my father first settled in the capital of the Creek nation, it was just a jumble of Indian huts. Sapulpa was a hot-bed and Tulsa a trading station.

Regardless of the difference in beginning of the two halves of Oklahoma, the outcome is the same. On any comparison, it stands far ahead in improvement than other states which have been at the job much longer. It is in the upper fourth among American commonwealths. Today my 82-year-old mother who pioneered it all, driving through it, sighed, "I never saw the world so beautiful." The season is fair. Its climate is over. It is in robust health.

The point of all this is, no "economic planning" or PWA, WPA, NRA, AAA, HOLC, RA, SSA, NYA, FDIC, or RFC, had anything to do with the making of this state out of nothing by destitute-bust people. The only alphabet they had was guts and gimp.

People's Pit Their pit of despair deep, farm prices just as low, markets just as restricted, jobs scarcer, suffering greater, ways to self-help harder, and absolutely no Harry Hopkins with eight billions to burn.

There are no new Oklahomans, but there is still this old one. Even during the depression, people have come here and pulled out on their own. What is going on right now in Texas, especially from Dallas and Fort Worth to Corpus Christi, is not unlike what happened to develop the eastern half of Oklahoma. There may be "no more frontiers," but there is plenty of undeveloped country within old frontiers—country as rich in possibility as any yet developed.

We don't need Henry Wallace and Harry Hopkins to "resettle" any Americans who haven't hooked worm. Relief is necessary, but a lot of the Wallace-Hopkins variety is just an any-dorm way of saying that it is hook-worm of itself—officially concocted and liberally injected. If some times this is the greatest single influence retarding complete prosperity.

Dueling Discouraged.

Francois de Montmorency, Comte de Suxe, age 27, greatest French military hero of the day, won his 22nd duel June 21, 1827, but lost his head. King Louis XIII decided the most effective way to discourage dueling would be to make the most conspicuous duelist.

Soldier Wanted Pay.

The United States army drove congress out of the capital on the 21. The army, armed, unpaid soldiers of Washington's army got out of hand, surrounded the congress in Philadelphia and demanded compensation. Unable to accede—the treasury was empty—congress adjourned, moved to Princeton, N. J.

the Trap Caught One Rat, All It Needs Is Resetting

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Courtney Ryley Cooper has earned a national reputation as an honest reporter. Any statement of fact made by him is commonly accepted without argument.

In his book, "Here's to Crime," he retells the story of Al Capone and adds a bit of information that either libels or shames the nation.

The federal government sent Capone to prison for his failure to pay income tax on the sum of $1,055,365.07, which he collected over a period of six years. But this was Capone's "take" from one gambling house and one race track, and he had many other rackets that paid more. It isn't probable that government operatives found 1 per cent of his income.

Capone felt safe, for he had bribed everybody who seemed to need it. In the government's files are the records of his purchases, including state legislators, congressmen, police captains, prosecuting attorneys, municipal and state judges and a host of smaller fry, all bought and paid for at their own price.

Capone lived high. His grocery bill was $1,000 a month. He bought $125 suits in the 20's, for himself and his favorites as well. There was no law in his own except his will, and men of all classes competed for his favor.

His final downfall, as Cooper tells it, was brought about by President Hoover.

The usual story, not repeated by Cooper, is that Mr. Hoover was enraged by a noisy and impudent Capone party that disturbed his sleep. Whatever the explanation, he ordered federal sleuths to get Capone and they got him. Just like that.

Why, then, do other racketeers flourish?

Cooper says that any town where slot machines, horse joints and gambling rackets flourish has a crook to give them protection—a crooked district attorney or mayor or police head or sheriff. That conclusion is obvious, of course, for flagrant lawbreaking isn't ignored by the police unless somebody higher up so orders.

That racketeers still do business in the old Capone way.

How, then, do you explain the fact that Capone was caught while the others are not?

If one can be trapped whenever a president gives the command to get him, why is there any delay about getting the others?

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Ah, take the cash and let the credit go."

Not heed the rumble of a distant drum."

Governor White and his fellow Mississippians are rejoicing in prospect of a $15,000,000 paper mill to be built in their state by Pennsylvania capitalists. If the Governor is still the statesman we remember him as being his joy is tempered with enough cold calculation to tell him that the mere cutting of Mississippi's trees by Pennsylvanians is not of itself, a boon. It is a boon only if he and his fellow citizens see to it that these trees, which are Mississippi's greatest single economic asset, are cut under conditions which promise ample return of growth to the forests of Mississippi and income to the people of Mississippi.

Both Mississippi and Louisiana are boasting of new industries which their strenuous and sacrificial inviting has brought. They do well to boast, for new industries are their great need. But the getting of them is only half the game. Conservation and more important half is the conduct of them in a way that will enrich the whole people of the two states and develop rather than destroy their natural and human resources.

Speaking of great problems with which Mississippians must wrestle, a particularly great one has just been put to us by a particularly great Mississippiian. "Say," writes Major Frederick Sullens, editor of the Jackson Daily News, "do you know what to do when a typewriter ribbon gets more tangled up than the League of Nations when you are in the midst of a serious writing at 2 o'clock in the morning?" Well, major, in that case we believe we would begin writing about the gold exchange situation. It is such a tangled subject that a tangled ribbon could probably handle it better than a smooth one.

Julian McGowan, able young executive and owner of the huge W. T. Smith Lumber Company in south Alabama, agrees that "drastic" measures are required for conservation of the south's forest resources. In his sight the forest fire is a greater enemy of conservation than is the unscientific or unscrupulous cutter. He agrees, though, that measures against both are required.

It is all very well to talk of excessive public expenditures and governmental interferences, but public money spent to prevent forest fires and public laws enacted to prevent improper forest cutting are activities in behalf of a great natural resource. Long before the modern plethora of taxes and laws, it was accepted as common sense that society, through its government, must take measures to preserve its natural resources. Money spent by states to prevent forest fires is in a very different category from money spent to support somebody with a job or maintain some unnecessary bureau. And laws enacted to assure proper cutting practices are in a different category from laws at-

DISCUSSES STATE PROBLEMS
Editor Constitution: In order to pay the expenses of the state we have to levy a tax on all the people. Taxes are supposed to be levied equally on all productions, and I do not believe the constitution would uphold a tax on one article and not on others. All should be taxed alike. Therefore, a sales tax is the only way to do it fairly.

Since we have created the old age, blind and dependent child act, the money should be handled justly and fairly. It should be apportioned to the counties and distributed by the residents of that county, since they are best able to know who among the applicants are deserving. They can handle it with less expense and so avoid spending it all before it gets to the man in need.

going to keep our feet on the ground as a nation in the future just as we have in the past.

"This has been a good Fourth of July for the country. We are so much better off in the United States than a whole lot of other nations of the world that I wish we could pass some of our poise on to them. I wish we could give them some of the fundamentals of our American democracy."

The President then told of the informality of a picnic he gave for newspapermen at his Val-Kill cottage forestry project yesterday and how one of his guests, Emil Ludwig, the German writer who has been exiled in Switzerland, had expressed amazement at everyone, including the President, being in the pool.

He quoted Emil Ludwig as saying: "You know, if this happened anywhere in Europe, whether it was a dictatorship or a monarchy or a republic, the head of the nation would have been surrounded by men in uniform, soldiers with bayonets, and members of the press would have appeared in frock coats and silk hats instead of shirtsleeves and bathing suits."

After the laughter subsided, the President continued: "You can multiply that example of the difference between our American form of living and what it is in Europe a thousand times. That is why I say I am very confident of the future of this country as long as we maintain the democracy of our manners and the democracy of our hearts."

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed conviction a constructive beginning has been made in the western hemisphere in the establishment of machinery for international peace, in a message delivered tonight at the opening of the 11th annual Institute of Public Affairs, University of Virginia.

In his message, read by Dr. Charles Gilmore Maphis, the chief executive said "as Americans, it must be clear to us that a continuation of the existing uncertainties in the international sphere is highly prejudicial to the well being of the United States, in common with all other countries."

"It must be evident beyond a shadow of a doubt that an accentuation of this unsettled condition will bring disaster and human suffering beyond the mind of man to grasp."

"The more squarely and honestly this problem is faced by leaders in all walks of life, in all countries, the sooner will an effective solution be found."

SIDNEY D. ARDOYNO DIES AT RESIDENCE

Veteran Employee of The Constitution Active in Fraternal Affairs.

Sidney Dale Ardoyno, veteran employee of The Constitution, died yesterday morning at his residence at 434 Pulliam street, after an illness of several weeks.

A member of the typographical union, he had held several offices in the local organization and was a former president of the union in Mobile, Ala. He had been an employee in the composing room of The Constitution for more than 15 years.

Mr. Ardoyno was active in fraternal affairs, being a member of Yaarab temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He was also a member of the Atlanta consistory of the Scottish Rite Masons. He was about 75 years old.

Before coming to Atlanta, Mr.

Ardoyno had spent many years working in Mobile. He had also been connected with newspapers in New Orleans, Shreveport and Birmingham.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. L. S. Jewett; a son, Eileenworth Coleman; a brother, J. D. Ardoyno, and a sister, Mrs. John Laney, of New Orleans. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon, The E. A. Minor Lodge No. 603, F. & A. M., will have charge of services at the graveside in Greenwood cemetery.

BODY OF WHITE MAN DISCOVERED IN RIVER

HARTWELL, Ga., July 5. (AP)—The body of an unidentified white man was found in the Savannah river six miles south of here today by a group of fishermen.

Sheriff A. B. Brown, of Hart county, said the man, apparently about 50 or 60 years old, had been dead several months. No marks of injury were found on the body.

Brown said the man was about five feet seven inches in height and apparently weighed about 150 pounds. He had no teeth.

stated delegates of 63 units throughout the nation "gave overwhelming proof of the inflexible will of this movement to uncompromisingly carry on its fight against any and all Marxist phenomena, from the outspokenly international atheistic, Jewish Communism to the most cleverly camouflaged, subversive and demoralizing activity, by every legal means at its disposal."

The statement further asserted "the unshaken faith of the Bund in its tried and proven leader, Fritz Kuhn, the best-hated German-American."

Kuhn was re-elected leader of the organization and his term of office lengthened to four years.

KNOCKOUT DEAL TO CLIMBING COSTS BY GOODYEAR'S NEW SURPRISE TIRE "R-1"

RIGHT ON THE NOSE! New "R-1" is built-to-order for millions who want tires with real nation-wide reputation — THE leading make — at the price they're used to paying!

Rubber Industry's Leader Squarely Meets Challenge of Rising Prices with Startling New Product that Hits Value Bull's-Eye for Millions!

costs, Goodyear engineering and development staffs went to work.

Brains and ingenuity went into that job—and won by a mile—won, with a knockout of a tire that is packed with value, loaded with safe mileage, at the price you're used to paying!

Biggest tire thrill in years

This husky, new, wear-defying big fellow is based on the principles of long-wearing economy that came from building more than 23,000,000 Pathfinders—plus the knowledge of safety, sure traction and amazing mileage out of the "G-3" All-Weather, most famous tire in the world.

Look at the new "R-1"—and get a thrill at the size and brawn and beauty of it. Lots of "beef" for greater mileage—12% more rubber in that tread. Sur-footed on the turns — because shoulders are higher and broader. Traction like a runner's spiked shoes — because wider, flatter tread gives more road-contact.

It's packed with top-value Goodyear features. Center Traction — the Goodyear Margin of Safety. Wider riding-ribs for easier steering — and slow, equalized wear. Patented Supertwist Cord — for maximum blowout protection.

See it — for yourself. Ask your nearby Goodyear dealer, or Goodyear Service Store, to show you the "R-1" in the right size for your car. And don't wait: see it and start saving now!

HERE'S where something is really done about the "higher prices" situation—while millions of car-owners, from Maine to California, stand up and cheer!

Costs are going up—plenty—and that's no secret. Labor, materials, all kinds of production costs.

But in times like this alert manufacturers fight all the harder to serve the public interest in genuine, practical ways.

And that is exactly what Goodyear—greatest tire-maker in the world—has done in your behalf. With brilliant success, as the facts will show.

That is by no means a matter of choice. It takes a special effort on the part of management and supervisors to maintain a human contact, to know what the men working under their direction think and how they feel about things. Different, fortunately. Men and women do not live and work for bread alone, and any industrial or labor leader or public leader who forgets that is heading for trouble."

RAINS HELP CROPS THROUGHOUT STATE

Parched Farm Lands Get Special Benefit.

General rains over Georgia yesterday have helped holiday picnics, golf and motor trips, but the Atlanta weather bureau said they were "good for all farm crops."

Officials said rains should be a boon to parched farm lands, especially pastures.

The rain extended eastward from Little Rock, Ark., through Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia to Washington.

The forecast for the state today is "local showers with moderate temperatures."

FISHERMEN REDUCE BOAT DEATH TOLL

Fast Work Keeps Fatalities to Six in Capizing.

DESTIN, Fla., July 5.—(P)—Swift work by Destin fishermen was credited today with holding to six the death toll in the capizing of the crowded motorboat Babe.

Dave Marler, eating lunch at his home on a bluff overlooking East Pass, saw the 45-foot craft, carrying between 40 and 43 persons, roll over when it was struck broadside by a wave.

"I rushed to my boat," he said, "and called to other boat owners of the vicinity. Several craft were manned almost simultaneously and before long all passengers not trapped by the capsized boat were rescued."

NEW RECORD SET BY MIDGET PLANE

Chicago Flyer Keeps Craft in Air 19 Hours.

CHICAGO, July 5.—(P)—Soaring over the suburban sky harbor airport, Norman B. Doerr, 23-year-old flying instructor, established today what airport officials claimed was a new endurance record for midget planes.

They said he broke the previous record of 19 hours and 57 minutes at 4:35 p. m. Atlanta time and hoped to keep his yellow monoplane in the air for a full 24 hours.

The previous record was established by Miss Helen Huton, of California.

Democrats fight each other, intend to keep on the sides.

Thus, the opposition leadership will devolve as it has in the past upon Senator Wheeler, liberal Democrat from Montana and Senator Burke, conservative Democrat from Nebraska, both resourceful parliamentarians and potent orators.

For the administration, Senator Clegg will assume the leadership backed by the driving energy of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, majority leader and skilled strategist, who has been steering New Deal bills through the senate since the New Deal began.

In practical application, the compromise would permit President Roosevelt to make two appointments to the court almost immediately—one under the bill and a second to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Associate Justice Van Devanter.

FIREMEN INJURED BATTLING BLAZE

Two Hurt Slightly in Trifling Apartment Fire.

Firemen Ralph J. Linder and J. P. Lester were injured yesterday in fighting fire in an apartment at 1474 Gordon street. Both men were treated at Grady hospital.

Linder was burned about the face and hands. Lester suffered severe bruises of the arm.

Both men reported yesterday they would be on duty today. Both are attached to Company No. 17.

NATION'S HOLIDAY COSTS 437 LIVES

Iday I can remember in years." Assistant Police Chief A. J. Holcombe asserted last night as he looked at the only two traffic accident reports made by police before nightfall. No one was injured in either of the collisions.

"Today has been routine, so far as we are concerned," said an attaché at Grady hospital, where most injured persons are taken for first aid treatment on holidays. "We have had no one seriously injured."

No Accidents Reported.
County police said they had no reports of accidents in the county and the Associated Press could find no tragedies throughout the state as a result of the extra day of celebration commemorating the signing of the United States' Declaration of Independence.

Only five persons were treated at Grady all day for injuries suffered from exploding fireworks, and attaches said all but one of these injuries were minor.

Virginia Roberts, 16, of 486 Sydney street, S. E., was cut and burned about the neck and cheek last night when a roman candle she was holding in her hand exploded in her face, barely missing her left eye.

The accident occurred in front of the girl's home.

She is the daughter of Police Captain S. J. Roberts, who was called to the scene immediately.

Others hurt were Richard McDubelt, 10, of 467 Techwood drive; Henry Carter, 8, of 648 Grady place, S. W.; Winford Edwards, 19, of 1246 Hill street, S. E.; and Caroline Martin, 12, of 561 Dunn street, S. W. They were slightly burned on the hands and face by small firecrackers.

Nine persons had died in Georgia Sunday, the Fourth, in automobile accidents.

Two unique happenings occurred in the city yesterday, police said, but they did not know whether to attribute them to the holiday or not.

Your Voice can Travel More Quickly Than Ever

THE average time required to complete all long distance telephone calls is now only 1.6 minutes, as compared to 7.5 minutes in 1925. Place a long distance call, and almost every time the connection will be made at once, while you hold the receiver to your ear.

While the speed of the service has been steadily increased, the cost remains low. New operating methods and improved equipment have made the service as clear and convenient as on local calls. Anytime, to anywhere, the service is ready for your use.

Bettering the service while extending hours for reduced rates and actually decreasing the cost have prompted many customers to comment to the operators or write to the Company expressing appreciation of the service and surprise at the low cost.

You, too, will be pleased with the speed, clearness and low cost of long distance telephone service. Use it to keep in touch with friends, relatives and business associates in other cities.

Lexington and Her Eagles Speed to Rescue

Eagles from the U. S. S. Lexington's aerie, 11 of them, flying in formation with the mother ship in the center background. This is the $40,000,000 pride of the United States navy which is speeding under forced draft to the Hawaiian Islands to refuel for the final dash to Howland island. There, if Amelia is not rescued before the Lexington's arrival, fast navy planes by dozens will be catapulted into the air until the entire 57 aircraft she carries are combing scientifically and doggedly every square mile of the vast Pacific in that area for a sight of her plane or her collapsible boat.

Hubert Pyle, seven, of 264 Rawson street, S. W., sustained an injury to his left eye when he ran into a fishing pole tied on the side of a car parked in front of 401 Rawson street. He was taken to Grady but doctors there said he was not in danger of losing sight in the eye.

Stabbed Over Potatoes.
A stabbing resulted from an argument over a meal being prepared by Sallie Mae Allen, negro, of the rear of 168 Clifford street, police reported. They said Ocy Barnum, 36-year-old negro woman, stabbed the Allen woman with an ice pick over "some potatoes which were boiling on the stove."

Just how the argument began, police had not learned. They arrested the Barnum woman, who gave her address as the rear of 167 Clifford street.

Three minor fires occupied firemen but none were serious.

Though the many and diversified functions of the city of Atlanta moved along smoothly yesterday, it was the first day in years that the city had no mayor.

Mayor Hartsfield was in North Carolina looking for mining possibilities, while Alderman I. Glover Hailey, mayor pro tem., was reported in Chicago. Provisional Mayor Pro Tem. Robert Carpenter was out of the city also for the day.

Mercury Hits 80.
The weather bureau recorded a rainfall of .52 inches at Candler field, and reported the minimum temperature was 68 degrees and the maximum 80. Automobile races were cancelled because of rain.

The same moderate temperature was forecast for Georgia today, with local showers predicted for the state and Atlanta.

As for the thousands of Atlantans who were out of town for the week end, they too encountered bad holiday weather in many portions of the state. Heavy rains were recorded along the coast and in the mountains.

It was estimated that more people went to the seashore for the short vacation than on any other Fourth of July. Mountain resorts were crowded also.

In Atlanta and nearby towns, many Independence Day meetings were held.

Melton Speaks.
Quimby Melton, Griffin editor and American Legion leader, was the principal speaker before the Daughters of the American Revolution in Atlanta.

Choosing the subject "If I Were President," because, he explained, "too many people are letting other folks do their thinking for them," Melton declared he would throw open 3,000,000 jobs to American workmen, deport aliens, cripple the radical movement in the United States, break up crime rings, and take 1,500,000 destitute persons off relief.

He said he would give relief from taxes and would "fight autocracy of the masses and the classes." The editor declared if he were president serving a second term he would announce there was no man in America big enough to become "dictator" of the nation. "Though a third term might not make a dictator, it would open the way for perpetuating a man in office, which would make him a dictator," he asserted.

Melton explained that "anything

Dyer at first denied any knowledge of the crime. His story developed such contradictions, however, that police threatened to place him on the courthouse steps and let him explain the contradictions to a lynchmob mob of Ingleswood citizens.

Suddenly Confesses.
Dyer suddenly screamed: "I did it! I did it! I killed them."

He was hustled away to the skyscraper jail where a box, containing bloody clothes torn from the slain girls' bodies, was shoved in front of him.

The slender relief worker faint-ed. When he was revived, he gave a complete account of the killings.

RUSSIA EXECUTES 22 RAIL WORKERS

Group Accused of Conspiracy To Aid Japan.

MOSCOW, July 5.—(UP)—Firing squad executions of 22 more employees of the Far East railroad for an alleged "Japanese plot" tonight provided a possible explanation for Russia's submission to Japanese military threats in last week's Amur river dispute.

The new executions, bringing to nearly 200 the number of persons "liquidated" recently in the Far East, were revealed by the Khabarovsk newspaper Pacific Ocean Star.

They occurred just before the Amur boundary tension and strengthened explanations for Japan's bold attitude toward the Soviet union.

The 22 employees were tried by a secret military collegium and were alleged to have been engaged in "Trotskyist-Japanese" plots.

GARBLED MESSAGE REPORTS 2 FLIERS ARE ABOVE WATER

the decks to take up their own pursuit of clues. The Colorado also carries fuel and water supplies for the cutter Itasca, so short on both that drinking water has been rationed to the crew.

For three days without pause, the Itasca has searched the waters east and west of Howland island, to the north. Great smoke beacons have been sent up by day, and searchlights lashed the skies at night, signals for the missing fliers. Every ship keeps constant watch on every ship and in every shore station, a constant watch was kept for signals from the Earhart plane.

Coast guard listeners said, however, that probability was lent the "281 north Howland" report by the fact that the freighter Moorby, itself north of Howland island, reported at 6:30 a. m. (Atlanta time) it had heard a strong continuous carrier wave on the Earhart frequency.

Lexington Due Thursday.
A message from the commanding officer of the aircraft carrier Lexington said the vessel expects to reach Lahaina Roads, in the Hawaiian Islands at about 2 p. m. (Atlanta time) July 8.

She will refuel at the point, which is about 75 miles southeast of Honolulu, before proceeding to the Howland island area.

The Lexington was averaging 25 to 26 knots, virtually her top speed.

The carrier likely would wait until she leaves Lahaina to release squadrons of her planes to aid in the hunt.

Hears Three Long Dashes.
Paul Mantz, technical adviser to Miss Earhart when she was making her globe-girdling flight plans, said three long dashes, as requested by the Pan-American station at Honolulu, had been heard by him in Los Angeles.

"We heard the dashes here," he said, "and this is the most hopeful sign yet."

The dashes were received at 5 a. m. Pacific standard time (7 a. m. Atlanta time), he said.

The naval mine sweeper Swan was within 200 miles of Howland island at 9 a. m. (Atlanta time) today.

Many Theories.
Previous efforts at getting a direction bearing from signals which may have come from the missing plane, placed it at widely separated points in the general search area. One Pan-American cross bearing indicated the transmission was coming from a point 400 miles northeast of Howland, far from any land.

At Los Angeles, Lieutenant Commander Clarence S. Williams, who plotted the Earhart course, suggested the search be made within a cone-shaped area, 300 miles wide at the base, extending westward from Howland.

Ask British Assistance.
In support of a Pan-American Airways suggestion, based on bearings from the faint signals, that the plane may be in the Phoenix island group, the coast guard at San Francisco suggested British co-operation in an examination of uninhabited parts of the islands.

Pan-American radio men estimated the Earhart ship might be in the vicinity of Gardner and McKean islands in the Phoenix group, which is from 150 to 200 miles south of Howland island.

Many Hear Signals.
Searchers reported they were heartened, also, by what appeared to be wireless replies to instructional broadcasts sent the missing fliers by Station KGMB at Honolulu. The faint reply signals were intercepted by the navy, coast guard, and Pan-American stations at Honolulu, and by the coast guard at San Francisco.

The fliers were told to send a series of two long dashes if they were on the water, and a series of three long dashes if they were on land. Apparently in reply, on the 3105-kilocycle band assigned to the Earhart plane, came a number of high frequency whistles from a carrier wave, but most listeners could not be certain what the senders were trying to transmit. Mantz interpreted them as three long dashes.

Through commercial stations here, Miss Earhart's husband sent frequent encouraging messages. "Help is on the way," he told her. "Signals have been heard."

'Mary the Third,' Guild Offering, To Open Tonight
Tonight at the Atlanta theater, the Theater Guild, allied with the Atlanta Federal Theater under the Works Progress Administration, opens a limited engagement of Rachel Crother's superb comedy, "Mary the Third."

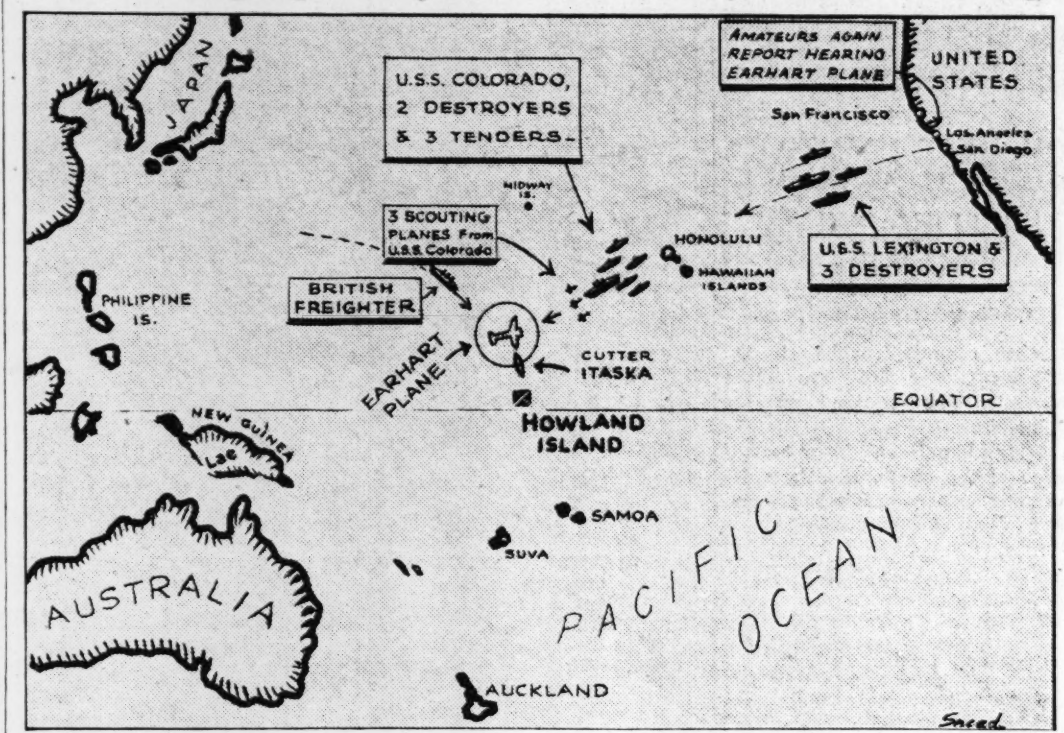

"Mary the Third," by the brilliant author of such hits as "When Ladies Meet" and "As Husbands Go," is ideal summer fare. The play is a finely-shaded drawing room comedy concerning the lives of three Marys, grandmother, mothers and daughter, and their respective reactions to emotional problems. Beautiful and unusual settings for the play have been designed by Julian Harris, who also executed the sets for such popular guild shows as "The Denikard," "The Torchbearers," and "Pursuit of Happiness."

Vernon Williams is stage director of the production which is staged and directed by Paula Causey, assisted by Paul Carpenter Jr.

Starred in the cast is Susan Falligant, supported by Kenneth Davidson, Byrd Strickland, Harry Lee, Dorothy Harbort, Nora Jennings, Dorothy Jones, Jean Flynn, Fritz McDuffie, Farley O'Brien, Ed. Walker and John Gregory.

Miss Falligant is one of Atlanta's own. Born and bred in Georgia, Susan is as southern as

All Converging on Spot Indicated by Radio Message

One of the greatest rescue searches in all history was under way late last night following a garbled radio message indicating Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, were alive in the mid-Pacific. The report placed the intrepid pair 231 miles north of their objective, Howland island. From Howland, the cutter Itasca raced to their aid while a minesweeper, a British freighter, a battleship and an aircraft carrier were under full steam, headed for the pin point on a map.

Commander Clarence S. Williams, who plotted the Earhart course, suggested the search be made within a cone-shaped area, 300 miles wide at the base, extending westward from Howland.

Amelia Failed To Follow Request That Would Have Located Plane
Itasca Reveals Drama-Packed Exchange of Messages; Earhart Did Not Use Wave Band That Directional Finder Was Adjusted To Receive.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—The coast guard made public today a report from the cutter Itasca telling of its efforts to help Amelia Earhart locate Howland island last Friday just before she was forced down wide of her goal.

The report gave the messages received from Miss Earhart and said the Itasca had repeatedly broadcast instructions for her to transmit on 500 kilocycles so the ship could use a direction finder, but she neither acknowledged nor complied with the advice.

"The Itasca on 2 July was stationed at Howland island at the request of Miss Earhart," the report said. "The Itasca's duties were to keep Earhart advised of weather conditions at Howland island and to act as homing vessel so the plane could obtain radio bearings on the Itasca. These were the sole radio duties requested by Miss Earhart."

"Ten messages were received from the plane on 2 July as follows: "2:45 a. m. (local time). Recognized Earhart voice. Message not clear except 'cloudy weather cloudy.'"

"3:45 a. m. Itasca from Earhart. Itasca broadcasts on 3105 kilocycles on hour and half hour. Repeat broadcast on 2105 kilocycles on hour and half hour. Overcast."

"5:54 a. m. Heard Earhart voice. Signals unreadable with five listening."

"8:12 a. m. (from Earhart). Want bearing on 3105 kilocycles on hour. Will whistle in microphone. About 100 miles out."

"5:45 a. m. 'Please take bearing on us and report in half hour. I will make noise in microphone. About 100 miles out.'"

"7:30 a. m. 'We must be on you but cannot see you. Gas is running low. Have been unable reach you by radio. We are flying at 1,000 feet.'"

"7:57 a. m. 'We are circling but cannot see land. Cannot hear you. Go ahead on 7500 kilocycles with long counts either now or on schedule. Time on half hour.'"

"8:03 a. m. 'Earhart calling Itasca. We received your signals but unable to get minimum. Please take bearings on us and answer on 3105 kilocycles.' Earhart made long dashes for brief period but emergency high frequency direction finder could not cut her in on 3105 kilocycles."

"8:44 a. m. Earhart called the Itasca 'We are on the line of position, honey-suckle, and equally lovely. Her appearance with the guild marks her debut to Atlanta audiences, but she is already a talented and experienced actress, having starred for the past three years at the University of Georgia with the Thalian-Bethelians in such productions as 'The Royal Family,' 'Once in a Lifetime,' and 'Double Doors.' More recently, in New York, she made a screen test for the role of Scarlett in 'Gone With the Wind.'"

Some apprehension was felt in Warren, Ohio, over a scheduled reopening of the hot mills of the Warren plant of Republic Steel. Chief of Police Barney Gillen said he heard rumors of heavy picketing and national guard and city officials made plans to provide additional guards.

Johnstown, Pa., where the Cambria works of Bethlehem were strikebound, was quiet. Workers have been on a three-day holiday. Mill gates will be opened today for "normal operations," company officials said.

EARHART'S VOICE REPORTED HEARD

California Operator Also Announces Reception of Word From Noonan.

SANTA PAULA, Cal., July 5.—(P)—Walter McMenamy, Los Angeles amateur radio operator who repeatedly has announced interception of radio messages from Amelia Earhart, said he heard her voice again at 5:40 a. m. P. S. T. (8:40 Atlanta time) today, followed four minutes later by that of her navigator, Captain Frederick Noonan.

"Reception was terrible because of static, but I could make out Miss Earhart saying 'KH'—the start of her call letters, KHAQQ. I have heard her voice over the radio before. I am positive it was hers," said McMenamy.

"At 5:44 I heard a man's voice, Captain Noonan's I am sure. I could make out 'QQ' but not much else. He talked for a long time, apparently explaining at great length his location. It sounded as if he had his hand over the microphone—very blurred. Then the radio began to fade."

McMenamy took a portable set here last night in hopes of obtaining better reception of what he believes are trans-Pacific radio messages from Miss Earhart's lost airplane.

Coast guard officials said they were "encouraged" by the repeated signals, but were at a loss to explain how the Earhart plane could still have power to transmit. San Francisco coast guard radio men sent word they had received weak carrier waves on 3,105 kilocycles at times for short intervals. That is Miss Earhart's frequency.

GOSSIP IS BLAMED IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Louisiana Woman Held in Cow-Pasture Shooting.

COUSHATTA, La., July 5.—(P)—Neighborhood gossip was blamed for the shooting and killing today of a 17-year-old girl by another girl in her teens.

Miss May Elvin Allen, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Allen, was the victim in a bizarre cow pasture squabble which ended in the shooting.

Sheriff Jones arrested Miss R. Jessie Pepper, also 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Pepper, and charged her with murder. She was held in jail here.

"There was some talk about one of the girls, I believe," the sheriff said, "and then the mothers got into it. Just some gossip—you know how folks talk."

Both families reside on the Haynes plantation near Crichton, about 35 miles southeast of Shreveport.

HERMAN B. EVINS DIES IN CHICAGO

Former Atlantan Victim of Heart Attack While Golfing.

Herman Bayne Evins, former Atlantan who was vice president of the Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, parent bottling company, died Monday morning within a few minutes after he had been seized with a heart attack while preparing to tee off for a holiday game of golf at a suburban course near Chicago, Ill.

According to information reaching friends here, Mr. Evins and three of his business associates had reached the first tee and were taking practice swings when Mr. Evins complained of a shortness of breath. An ambulance was summoned but he was dead before the hospital was reached.

Funeral Services Here.
The body will be brought to Atlanta for funeral services to be held from Spring Hill either tomorrow or Thursday afternoon. The rites will be conducted by Dr. M. Ashby Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Evins and their two daughters, Carolyn and Margaret, had made their home at Winnetka, a suburb of Chicago, since Mr. Evins assumed the vice presidency of the parent bottling company and moved to Chicago in the early part of 1936.

He had been identified with the Coca-Cola organization for more than 12 years, being largely concerned with the bottling activities. In that capacity, following several years in the Atlanta office, he took over the management of the Boston bottling plant in 1930 and subsequently was transferred to Baltimore as manager of the plant in that city.

Born in Rome.
Born in Rome, Mr. Evins lost his parents at an early age and was reared by an uncle in South Carolina. He began his business career with the law firm of Reuben & Lowry Arnold, after graduation from the Atlanta Law School, and remained in that capacity until his affiliation with the Coca-Cola Company in 1925.

Mrs. Evins, the former Miss Maude Carlton, daughter of Mrs. James E. Carlton, 754 Myrtle street, Atlanta, and her daughters will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow morning from Chicago, accompanying the body here.

Bridge Club Members To Leave For Grand Vacation in Miami

By Sally Forth.

A GROUP of prominent young married couples who compose one of the city's many bridge clubs will leave Saturday for Miami, Fla., on their annual vacation jaunt. So congenial are the members of the group that they are not content to meet for a weekly game of bridge and for numerous other activities in between. In addition they arrange their vacations simultaneously and spend the time together at some popular resort or some other place of their choosing. Last summer they took a cottage at Sea Island Beach, and what a gay time they had with all the diversions offered on the seacoast!

The group includes Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Winship, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Longino and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pitts. Mr. and Mrs. Pitts have just returned from Birmingham, where they spent the last 10 months, and are being welcomed back into the fold with much enthusiasm. At present they are house-hunting in preparation for establishing residence here again.

The party will motor to Miami, spending Saturday night in Jacksonville, and arriving at their destination on Sunday afternoon. Upon arrival they will take possession of the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Weller, parents of one of the club members, Mrs. M. H. Elder, who are now ensconced in their summer home at Goshen, N. Y. The Weller home on Brickell avenue is one of the handsomest in the city, and the surrounding gardens are particularly lovely, boasting of an outdoor dance pavilion and ending in a tropical jungle which is dotted with pools and stocked with gay-plumaged birds. Mrs. Weller left her entire staff of servants to man the house during the two-week stay of the Atlanta party. So everything is in readiness for their arrival on Sunday.

The house party guests will also have the exclusive use of the Weller cabins at the Surf Club while in Miami, and numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Weller have planned parties in anticipation of their visit. Have you ever heard of more entertaining vacation plans for a congenial group of friends?

A TRIO of Nashville, Tenn., visitors spending the gay holiday week in Atlanta include Mary Anne Farris, Chase Moss and John Grimes. The Tennesseees were the guests of Dorothy Sanford at her West Andrews drive home. Mary Anne and Dorothy were schoolmates at Finch school in New York, where the former will return next fall to resume her studies.

Dorothy, however, will be counted one of the most attractive members of Atlanta's 1937-38 Debutante Club. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanford and is a lovely brunette with an engaging personality.

The Tennessee visitors flitted about to lots of social affairs while they were here, and were central figures at the dinner party given at Brookhaven Country Club on Sunday evening. Goodby was said all too soon to Mary Anne, Chase and John, who promised to make another visit to Dorothy in the near future.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY F. CHALMERS journeyed all the way from Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the golden wedding anniversary of their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Chalmers, on July 2. Incidentally, the visitors will celebrate their own fiftieth marriage date next November.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Chalmers, who reside at 774 West Peachtree street, moved to Atlanta from Stuart, Iowa, in 1896 immediately after the Cotton States Exposition. They are a beloved and highly esteemed couple and are the parents of Charles and Franklin Chalmers, the former being well known in insurance circles and the latter numbered among Atlanta's prominent attorneys.

Before her marriage in 1887 Mrs. Chalmers was Miss Lena Vogel and Chalmers families being Dexter and Chalmers families being among the pioneers in that state.

On last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Franklin S. Chalmers entertained at their Peachtree Hills avenue home in celebration of their parents' 50th anniversary, and on Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chalmers will honor the beloved pair with a dinner at their home on Penn avenue.

Miss Rees Weds Frank P. King.

PRESTON, Ga., July 5.—The wedding of Miss Eva Frances Rees and Frank Pickett King was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erosco Rees, in Preston, on Sunday at 4:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Royal Caloway, of Plains, Ga., in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. A musical program was rendered by Miss Marian Joiner at the piano and Miss Mildred Daniels sang. Mrs. Richard Johnson, sister of the groom, and Samuel Rees, brother of the bride, lighted the tapers and formed an aisle of tulle for the bridal party.

The bride was lovely in her traveling suit of navy tulle, sheer, with trimmings of embroidered white linen and a navy blue off-the-face hat. Her accessories were navy and white, her shoulder cluster was of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rees entertained at an informal reception and were assisted by Misses Georgia Drew, Mary Sherman, Frances McLain, Agnes Agerton, Miss Marie Rees, cousin of the bride, presided at the punchbowl. Miss Belle Rees and Mrs. Charles Rees assisted the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. King left for a wedding trip through the Carolinas, Tennessee and Kentucky. Upon their return they will reside in Americus.

Out-of-town guests were Martha McRae, Mrs. Alex. McRae, Fort Gaines; Chester Garrison, Fort Gaines; Marian Joiner, Coleman; Mildred Daniels, Hartsfield; Ruth Lounsbury, Blackshear, Ga.; Frances McLain, Dawson; Ann Mary Evans, Colquhoun; Mr. and Mrs. John King, Jr., Macomb; Mr. and Mrs. Joe King, Americus; U. ### Miss Metcalf Weds Horace Loomis.

ALBANY, Ga., July 5.—Miss Catherine Metcalf and Horace Loomis were quietly married Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. P. M. Metcalf, in Hartford, Ala. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. D. Zbinden, of Dothan, Ala., in the presence of the immediate families.

The couple was unattended. The bride, an attractive blonde, was gowned in a becoming two-piece model of gray crepe, having a short coat, lined with duobonnet, which featured wide revers of duobonnet. She wore a hat of duobonnet felt and matching accessories. Her shoulder spray was of talisman roses.

After the wedding an informal reception was held at the home. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Loomis will reside in Meridian, Mississippi.

The bride has been a popular member of the Albany High school faculty and was re-elected for the fall term. She is the sister of Harry Metcalf, of this city. After receiving her A. B. degree from Alabama College, she studied at Emory University and won her master's degree in mathematics.

Mr. Loomis is a native of Waterloo, Iowa, and a graduate of the University of Iowa. He is well known in Albany, having resided here for about five years while connected with the pean experiment station of the United States Department of Agriculture. He was transferred February 1 to Meridian, Miss.

of Agricultural Club, Inter-collegiate debate team, debate council, honor key council and Y. M. C. A. cabinet. Since the completion of his work at the University of Georgia, Mr. King has been connected with the Abraham Baldwin College at Tifton in the capacity of extension farm management work, and for the past two years has held a responsible position as farm management field representative of the farm loan division of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Miss Young, Fiance Are Honor Guests

Henry Young was host at an informal party, followed by supper, last evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club in compliment to his sister, Miss Rebecca Young, and her fiancé, James Fraser. The marriage of the popular young couple will take place Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church, the ceremony to be followed by a reception at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lane Young assisted their son in entertaining his guests who included in addition to the honor guests, Misses Frances Young, St. Julian Fringle, Mary Hurt, Suzanne Strassburger, of Montclair, N. J.; Lida Read Voight, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dolly Nicholson, of Union, S. C.; Virginia Bradshaw, Helen Arcock, Mr. and Mrs. Valon Courts, Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Davant Lawton, Norman Ramsey, William Voight, of Chattanooga; John Young, Dan Sage, Dick Courts, Sidney Smith Jr., Dan Horton, of Durham, S. C., and Murray Fant, of Union, S. C.

Mrs. H. Lane Young honored her daughter at a trousseau tea yesterday at their home on Oakdale road.

The house was decorated throughout with gladioli in pastel shades. The center table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and adorned by a silver bowl of Shasta daisies, encircled by silver candlesticks holding white tapers.

Miss Lida Read Voight, of Chattanooga, and Miss Susanne Strassburger, of Montclair, N. J., assisted in entertaining the guests.

Miss Bond Weds Thomas H. McHan.

ETON, Ga., July 5.—Miss Lyndell Alta Bond became the bride of Thomas Henry McHan at a ceremony characterized by beauty and dignity at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Loughridge, of Eton, on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock with the Rev. William M. Kelley, pastor of the Eton Baptist church, officiating in the presence of relatives.

The ceremony was performed in the living room before an improvised altar banked with palms and ferns interspersed with white candles and centered with a white cross entwined with ivy. The white tapers were lighted by Mrs. Willard Wesley Fincher Jr., of Chatsworth.

Prior to and during the ceremony a musical program was rendered by Mrs. W. W. Keith, pianist, and Miss Nadine Wilbanks, cousin of the bride, sang sacred selections. The bride descended the stairs alone and walked to the entrance of the living room where she was met by the groom and they entered to the strains of the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin."

The beautiful bride was becomingly gowned in a stylish model of navy blue Romaine sheer ensemble, fashioned with a skirt-length coat. She wore an off-the-face model of white felt and white and navy blue accessories, and her flowers were white orchids.

After the ceremony the couple left by motor for a wedding trip to points of interest in the west. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. McHan will reside in Atlanta, and will be interesting acquisitions to the younger married contingent of society.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

The more I see of marriage, the more I feel sort of glad that I have none of it for the present. It appears to me that unless young people have years of experience in working at a business or profession before taking on matrimony, they are likely to head for the rocks and hit them. Better be single than sorry and so I am working at my career but not losing sight of the star to which I have hitched my wagon. Of course, I know that there is no such thing as a perfect man or perfect girl either but we must have ideals and cling to them. As a thoughtful girl who is looking and learning I would like to hear your reaction to my dream of love. Cleanliness being next to goodness I want a clean husband, morally, mentally, physically. I think it takes a religion to keep a man clean and loyal. College education is not essential but a good mentality is. If a man is mentally alert he is likely to be industrious and progressive and likely to sense true values. Am I right?

ANSWER:

As far as your ideal husband is concerned I think you are just about correct but as to putting in the salad years pursuing a career before you volunteer for matrimony, I'm not in agreement with you. I don't believe business or professional experience is necessary to make a girl a good picker of a pilot nor do I believe that his experience will necessarily enable her to keep her marital ship off the rocks.

Certainly in these days of economic upsets it is sensible for every girl to be able to support herself. A short filing at collecting the pay envelope, writing her own checks and casting up her own accounts will stand her in good stead when she's married. But if you ask me, I think it is a pretty good plan for her to be cutting her eyes around for the prospective groom, the minute she finishes her education.

The longer she puts off marriage the more the masculine fire is reduced. While she has her mind on her career, the girls who have nothing on their minds but hats and husbands are gobbling up the prospects. In her thirties she has a much smaller chance of finding the right man than she would have had in her twenties and for several reasons. She has tasted the sweetness of financial independence and she will be reluctant to relinquish it unless a beau ideal comes along. In the meantime she has been moving up her stakes, heightening her requirements and the men aren't improving any.

In the end she has to compromise with her ideals for the majority of the choice selections are signed and sealed. Divorced men, widowers, bachelors who are conditioned to the idea of remaining bachelors and must be reconciled before they can be attached, constitute the field.

Frankly, I am for the old southern custom that has been the subject of so many jokes north, east and west: the old southern custom of teaching a girl that as soon as her education is completed, she should apply her intelligence, her charm and what has she to the business of locating, landing, marrying a man she can love, one who can support her, shield her, protect her from the cold, cold world. That's not all, either. She should be taught that marriage is no picnic, no picnic any way you take it, that however good she is and however good the partner may be, there will be ups and downs, heartaches and disappointments, all of which she should take in the spirit of affection and good sportsmanship which moved her when she got married.

Tea Will Honor

Miss Bradshaw Today.

Miss Virginia Bradshaw, whose marriage to Sidney Smith Jr., will be an interesting event of late July, will be central figure at the tea to be given today by Mrs. Robert F. Adamson and Mrs. W. W. McManus. The guests will assemble at 4 o'clock at the Druid Hills Golf Club and will be seated for tea at a beautifully appointed table featuring a decorative motif of green and white.

Covers will be placed for Miss Bradshaw, her mother, Mrs. C. E. Bradshaw; Mrs. Sidney Smith Sr.; Mrs. Quay McEwen; Mrs. George Dean; Misses Hattie Wiesberg, Frankie Marbury, Mary Malone, Florence Moden, Grace Moden, Helen Hixon, Theresa Pope, Beverly Peoples, Margaret Lee Tolbert, Frances Crawford, Carol Moore, Mary Cary Maynard, Elsie Alexander, Callender Whitner, Judy Wind, Grandmother Evanston, III., who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. McManus, and the hostesses.

JUST NUTS

Beverly Roberts has as fine a skin and complexion as Hollywood has ever seen. She exercises great care during the broiling months. The day before indulging in sea bathing, Beverly anoints herself with the richest, oiliest cream she can buy, allowing it to stand for at least 20 minutes before removing the excess.

On arriving at the beach, Beverly uses a thick sunburn cream, rubbing it in well on all exposed skin. The application is used before sitting in the sun—not afterwards, when it's usually too late to do any good, as so many sun worshippers learn to their cost.

On arrival home after the day at the beach, Miss Roberts plunges immediately into a hot bath and stays there for 15 minutes. She then dabs her skin with a pad of cotton soaked in vinegar to remove the heat.

The problem of makeup after a bout of sun bathing is always very troublesome, as it is difficult for powder to remain on a warm surface. Miss Roberts begins her makeup chore by applying a thick foundation lotion to face, neck, arms and back.

Allowing the lotion to dry before proceeding further, Beverly uses a minimum amount of rouge, eye shadow and lipstick on her sun-burnt features. The final touch is a very light dusting of powder on face, neck and arms. And she is ready for anything the evening offers.

Home Institute Budgeting Makes Dreams True

LARGE - MONEY PURCHASES EASIER TO MAKE.

Make your dream house come true by budgeting! With a budget you can eat better, dress better, put more money into big purchases like a car or a house—because planned spending stops up the leaks. Should you or shouldn't you buy that "bargain-table" white hat you might wear four or five times. "It's not in the budget," you can say cheerfully. In this friendly way a budget holds down expenses for food, clothing, recreation, and challenges you to make every cent you spend return the greatest value.

ODD HOUSE DORMITORY.

Old-time mansions had huge bedrooms because land, building material and labor were cheap. Perhaps another reason for the spacious manor house bedroom was the instinctive desire for air to breathe—they never opened the bedroom windows, for night air was noxious.

Odd house will have a separate bedroom for each member of the family, but no bedroom will be larger than 10x12 feet. The rest of the space usually used in the bedroom will be used for clothes closet, drawers, a dressing room and a bathroom.

The bathroom, adjoining each bedroom will take half the space of the usual bathroom, because only shower baths will be used.

But the bedrooms will have as much window space as possible, windows entirely filling one side, if possible two sides. Windows fitted with roll-up wire screens for summer, unbleached muslin screens for winter. The unbleached muslin screen is the simplest way to have fresh air in the bedroom yet exclude dust, snow, wind, excessive cold. The unbleached muslin screen admits plenty of light to any room. It is washable. Every sleeping room in cold climate or cold weather should have one or more windows equipped with screens of unbleached muslin. It gives ideal sleeping atmosphere. Such bedroom arrangement with the windows open and the winter or summer screens in place gives all the advantages of a sleeping porch without the discomforts and difficulties involved in sleeping on an ordinary porch.

The sleeping rooms will be on the second floor. Where sufficient ground is available and not too costly, or where there is an invalid to be considered, it would be as well from the health viewpoint to have all rooms on the ground floor. For that matter, it is as healthful to sleep in a basement room as it is in an upstairs room. That is, if you have no quaint superstitions about imaginary dampness. People who sleep or live in basement apartments have to be concerned only about freedom of the air from pollution by faulty furnaces, water heaters or other fuel-burning appliances or by leakage of gas from the gas lines or meter connections if any in the building. The dressing rooms and bathrooms at Odd House will have radiators or registers for heat, not the bedrooms.

Oh, yes, the bedrooms are going to be equipped with beds. We do like a nice comfy bed. In fact the kind of a bed is a pretty important matter at Odd House or at your house. The hired man at Odd House has several ideas about beds, not all of them crazy, and he will tell you about them next time we get on the subject. Meanwhile, we'll be glad to receive your suggestions about beds or any other feature of Odd House. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

Hollywood Today

NEW MOVIE STAR'S PAY DOUBLED TO $132 A WEEK

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—Behind movie headlines: Wayne (Kid Galahad) Morris, Warner Brothers' fighting newcomer to the hero ranks, and potential box office threat to Clark Gable and Robert Taylor, wants a raise.

"We shall do the right thing by that young man," said the studio paymaster in his most magnanimous manner. "We will double his salary."

How would you like to have your boss answer you back like that?

But it doesn't mean so much to Morris, at least comparatively. He's been getting only $66 a week—probably a new low for screen heroes.

Eighteen months ago Janet Gaynor was turned away from the lot that made her a famous screen personality. She was unable to get a contract there, or anywhere, at any price.

No one heard of Janet for months and then David Selznick played a hunch. He brought her back for the headline role in "A Star Is Born."

And here a star actually was reborn. Janet's old fans and a flock of new ones, too, rallied to her side.

Mr. Selznick, who might be termed the benefactor in her comeback, called the little red-head into his office a few days ago and asked her to set a price on one more picture to be made for him.

Miss Gaynor said $300,000. Carole Lombard, assertedly the highest paid movie star in Hollywood today, is receiving $225,000 for making a picture on the same lot.

Agents for one of the picture expose magazines are scurrying about Hollywood digging up data for a picture life story on James Cagney. There is only one short chapter in Cagney's life which the star fears—and he and his agents are attempting frantically to block any attempt to reveal it.

Before he became a successful song and dance man on Broadway, Cagney toured a couple of seasons through the tank towns as a vaudeville handy man. During one lean period the only way he could get a job was to dress as

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY (Friday)—The President does enjoy Hyde Park! Anyone seeing him start off yesterday afternoon with six people packed in his very small car, much after the manner of sardines, would hardly believe that he had a care in the world! France, England, Spain, Japan, Germany and Italy, and all the other nations have a little niche somewhere in his mind in case some question arises involving the interests of the United States.

All the numerous problems can be turned to at a moment's notice, but for the afternoon he was on vacation. It is a blessed provision of nature when you are able to forget everything else and be completely absorbed in the interest of the moment. My husband has this ability to a marked degree.

Miss Le Hand and I drove to Poughkeepsie to go to the telephone office, to the postoffice and to the grocery's, for someone has to attend to the everyday needs of life. Then Dr. and Mrs. Hendrik Van Loon and a protégé of theirs, a very musical and charming young lady, Miss Castagnetta, spent an hour with me.

Dr. Van Loon and I were doing a little work together, the others wandered around the garden and sat by the pool and then came in to join us for iced coffee and cookies before they started to drive back to Connecticut. He brought the President some Dutch herring and other Dutch delicacies which I know will be much enjoyed.

It is so cold for this season of the year that I can hardly realize the second of July is with us. I slept under a very heavy blanket last night, an almost unheard-of procedure on the Hudson river in summer!

Up at 7:15 this morning to breakfast with Anna and John, who were taking their numerous bags into New York in my car. I will go with them to the airport this afternoon, and after seeing them off will drive the car to my New York home. It is just as well when I am saying good-bye to the children for me to have something that has to be done to hold my attention immediately afterwards, for I always hate to see any of them fly off to distant parts.

Mrs. Schneider and I came down to New York by train a little later in the morning. We will be followed later by my mother-in-law and Johnny and his friends. Tomorrow at 10 o'clock I shall be starting with them for the steamer.

They do not sail until noon but after I look the boat over and see them settled I shall probably leave them, for it never seems to me very sensible to stand on the dock and wave a handkerchief until the boat has disappeared. I shall then pick up my car and motor back to Hyde Park, where Betsy and my husband will have been joined by Dr. and Mrs. Emil Ludwig. I rather think this will be the last of the farewells that I shall be saying in person.

a girl, wig and all, and take his place in a chorus of 12 dancing ladies. A newspaper photographer shot some pictures of the group. When Cagney's name began to have a meaning to picture fans, the mortifying pictures in the chorus girl get-up made their appearance. One by one, Cagney and his agents bought up the prints.

The last one turned up about a year ago—at least Cagney thought it was the last one. In this he seems to have been mistaken for, on the same day he was told of the forthcoming magazine "Exposure," a courier rushed in breathlessly with news that another chorus girl print had been traced to a Los Angeles collector.

Efforts to meet the man have failed and now Cagney is fearfully awaiting the magazine's next issue.

Emotions are a matter of cold mechanics to directors and players. They are measured like yard goods.

actors against speeding up facial emotions in a scene where extreme terror was to be registered. It seems the proper interpretation of terror requires more film footage than that of any other human emotion.

According to Griffith, it requires 18 feet of film, or 12 seconds of running time, for an actor to prove to an audience's satisfaction that he's properly shocked about something or other. He can register joy in six feet of film, four seconds of running time. Fear and defiance are also quickly caught on celluloid, each requiring six to nine feet for registration. Fury and hysteria, however, are almost as slowly recorded as shock, with fright, terror and horror following in order of slowness.

As for kisses, the Hays office still feels, in view of ever-watchful moral crusaders, that they should be gotten over with in a flash—no more than nine feet of film and six seconds of running time at the outside. But this is a rule habitually violated and circumvented—often by as much as 500 per cent.

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH McRAE BOYKIN

IT SOUNDS SO EASY.

Just surviving means howling success in most families.

"I'm fed up," writes Mary R., "with recipes that take half the morning to fix and schedules for tossing off the entire housework in about a half hour. It all sounds so glamorous and easy. But just try to do it when you have graduated in just a few years from school to a busy household with a couple of children to keep right-side up, and all the work to do. I'll feel like a howling success if I just survive."

"It isn't that I don't love my home, because I do. And I like to have things as nice as possible, but I simply haven't the time nor the money for anything that isn't very practical."

"Take my interior decorating, for instance. I have to think first of durability and upkeep before I think of colors and designs. Maybe that sounds like sacrilege to a decorator, but it won't to the mother of a growing family with a house that's lived all over."

The Problem.

"Here's a tip: problem just now—our old taupe mohair sofa is in the market for a new cover and I'm getting new curtains for the living room. We have a good Wilton rug, figured but mostly blue, and the walls are papered in an indistinct scenic in creamy tones with the pattern in a lightish red, that's not at all pronounced on the wall. One easy chair is taupe and while it doesn't look like much, it is still in good condition, so I think I'd better let well enough alone there. The other big chair needs a new cover and I had in mind a slip cover. Two smaller arm chairs with wood frames have blue tapestry covers. Of course, I'd like to make this room look as attractive as possible, and would deeply appreciate your suggestions, keeping in mind the limitations mentioned above."

Color Doesn't Cost Extra.

Don't we know what Mary R. is up against? But still a little color doesn't cost anything extra and can be just as practical as drabness. We'd have the sofa in a dark red covering—brocatelle if she's having it upholstered, red or denim if she's making a slip cover for it. Then why not flowered slip covers for both the other big chairs—something washable and brightly colorful with a ground tone that won't show dirt easily. Maybe a flat weave printed mohair would be the thing because it's so practical and washes beautifully. We think that Mary R.'s room then could stand the gaff very nicely and still do a lot to keep her feeling crisp and chipper toward the world. As for the curtains, cream lace net in a small dot or design would be a good idea if she feels that stretching curtains is easier than ironing them. We generally do. But if she doesn't mind ironing, why not natural pongee? That would take the place of both curtains and draperies and blend nicely with the rest of the room.

Lean against the wall, facing it, bracing yourself with the hands, slightly above the head. Kick backward with alternate legs. Raise the leg as high as possible and kick from the hips.

As you can see, it takes exercise to have a model figure!

SLAYER OF POLICEMAN IS HUNTED IN 3 STATES

LANCASTER, S. C., July 5.—(AP)—Police Chief A. H. Montgomery said tonight that law enforcement agencies of three states were alert in a hunt for William Morgan, escaped convict, wanted in connection with the shotgun slaying of a policeman here early Sunday.

Many people pick their friends to pieces.

Georgia Federation Club Institute Opens in Athens on Wednesday

ATHENS, Ga., July 5.—The fifteenth annual institute of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will open at the University of Georgia next Wednesday morning, July 7, with Mrs. Hampton Fleming, Richmond, Va., leader in the discussions and the general theme of the institute, "Club Structure and Uses."

Welcome addresses will be delivered by Chancellor S. V. Sanford, President Harmon W. Caldwell and Dr. E. D. Pusey, director of summer school conferences at the university. Leaders in the morning's discussions will be Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. C. W. Heery, treasurer of the Georgia Federation, Mrs. John K. Otley, Atlanta, and Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. T. W. Ashby, Valdosta, will open the afternoon session with a discussion of "The Individual Club." Later, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, will talk on the general federation, after which Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge, will lead a conference on the Georgia Federation.

At 6:30 o'clock a garden party will be held at the home of Mrs. Lamar Rucker, given by the members of the Athens Woman's Club in honor of the visiting clubwomen. Thursday morning's session will be based on the theme, "Club Uses," with Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Cleveland Thompson, of Millen, and Mrs. Ralph Butler, first vice president of the Georgia Federation, leading the discussions. The institute will close with a luncheon in Memorial hall at 1 o'clock.

Miss Hooper Weds Marion L. Waters.

The marriage of Miss Marion Elizabeth Hooper to Marion L. Waters was solemnized on June 18, and is announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Harry M. Hooper. Rev. H. M. Strozler performed the ceremony in the presence of only immediate members of the families and close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride's wedding outfit was of white sport crepe made on simple lines. She wore a white French felt hat and accessories to match. Her shoulder bouquet was of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters are residing at 908 St. Charles avenue, Northeast.

Week's High Score Made by Rose Club

The Rose Garden Club, with a beautifully arranged niche of foliage material in tones of gray, received the high score of 98 for the week at the Garden Center. In the announcement of the garden club scores, that of the Magnolia Garden Club was omitted. The club's score is 632, placing it fourth from the top. The Rose Garden Club's score is 632.

Mrs. Chester Martin, chairman of the Hapeville Woman's Club garden division, displayed lavender, blue, pink, yellow and white Queen Anne's lace, colored by dipping the flower heads into dry powdered colored chalk.

A member of the Sylvan Hills Garden Club brought a stalk of the coral colored Erythrina Crista-Galli for display in the center. It grows readily from seed to a height of seven or eight feet, has handsome deep green leathery foliage, and is one of the most satisfactory flowering shrubs for Atlanta and the south.

Hostesses for this week are: Tuesday morning, Northwood and Cherokee Garden Clubs; Tuesday afternoon, garden division Atlanta Woman's Club and Amariyllis Garden Club; Wednesday, Druid Hills and East Lake Garden Club; Thursday morning, garden division of Kirkwood Civic League and the Dogwood Garden Club; Friday, Iris and Perennial Garden Clubs.

Out-of-town visitors at the center were R. G. Ogburn, of Sarasota, Fla.; Mrs. O. E. Young, of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Mrs. W. P. Stephens, of Thomaston.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin are on a honeymoon in Florida after which they will make their home in Atlanta.

Barbara Bell Styles

A House Frock of Comfortable Lines for Large Women.

The round neckline, a narrow yoke that extends into a short cape sleeve, feels as cool as it looks even on the hottest day. No tight armholes, no seams to bind the collar to add bulk or weight. Women with a figure problem, especially, like the smooth, comfortable lines of this dress. The panel skirt flares slightly toward the hem and is very comfortable to wear. For real joy in hot weather, make it up in dotted swiss, sheer voile, dimity, lawn or percale.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1279-B is available in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 34 requires 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch material and 1 yard of ribbon for the belt. Pattern includes a complete step-by-step guide for sewing. Price of pattern 15 cents. Don't send stamps.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Summer Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes—selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age, slenderizing well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

DREAMS MAY BE REALIZED. Imaginative visitors to the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland this summer, will be able to "drive" a locomotive. A full-size cab of a locomotive will be a major exhibit in the Making-of-a-Nation section. The presentation is made through the co-operation of five of America's largest railroads.

Dr. and Mrs. Walker Honored at Supper

Dr. and Mrs. Exum Walker, who have arrived in Atlanta for residence, were honored on Sunday evening when Dr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Fincher Jr., entertained at a beautifully appointed buffet supper at their home on Parkside drive.

The house was decorated with colorful summer blossoms. The table in the dining room was overlaid with an exquisite Italian cut-work cloth and had for its central decoration a Lev x bowl filled with shasta daisies, encircled by candlesticks holding yellow tapers.

Dr. and Mrs. Fincher were assisted in entertaining their guests, who included a small group of close friends, by their mother, Mrs. Edgar Fincher, and their sister, Mrs. William Trimble.

Dr. and Mrs. Walker are interesting additions to the younger married contingent, and are being extended a cordial welcome here. Mrs. Walker is the former Miss Roberta Dudley, of Hammondsport, N. Y., and her marriage to Dr. Walker was a recent event. He is a native of Atlanta and has a host of friends here who are delighted that he and his wife will establish residence in this city.

Miss Sara Hewlett And Fiance Honored.

Tech's Inland Navy Shows Others How It's Done

ABOARD U. S. S. DICKERSON WITH GEORGIA TECH NAVAL UNIT, July 4.—It was very bright that last morning at Kingston, Jamaica. There was a wind blowing up small white caps in the harbor so that the small boats coming back from the docks to the ships were against the sea. And the spray came aboard so that when one climbed up the gangway to the deck there was salt on one's face.

And that was the day they held the whaleboat races with seven crews entered, two from Georgia Tech, and one crew made up of three men from Harvard and three from Yale. We called them the Hales and the Yards.

Now, a whaleboat is not canoe such as may be rented at amusement park lakes. It is a he man's boat, a hairy-chested affair which is 26 feet long and which weighs 1,185 pounds, and which will carry 24 men in the races. Six men were to pull it a mile.

The Dickerson crew got aboard wearing bathing suit trunks. They were lowered away into the choppy sea, and their motor whaleboat took them in tow.

The picture was one not to forget. The water was a light green, and the white caps were tossing their white feathers of spray into the air. Lying at anchor were the seven destroyers. The destroyer is the finest looking ship in the world. They have a sassy self-assured look. They look as if they had their caps tilted over one eye, as if they would give and take.

And from each of them came the motor whaleboats towing the whaleboats and their crews. The boats bobbed high with the waves and there was lots of spray from the bows of the motor whaleboats so that if one stood up to try and make a picture one was sure to get slapped with a wave of spray—and a very thick spray at that.

THE TECH CREWS.

The rails of the Decatur and Dickerson were lined with members of the regular crews and with the Tech students in the N. R. O. T. C.

It seemed strange to an old campaigner with Tech teams to be rolling and bobbing in the harbor at Jamaica, away down in the West Indies, and to hear coming over the harbor the old Tech yell as the boys swung their caps and cheered the teams.

Not many thought the Tech teams had a chance. The Yale crew from the Badger had challenged and all had accepted. But the Tech navy is an inland one, and the boys have no water in which to row a boat, unless they wish to rent a boat at Grant park. The boats from the eastern universities contained members of the regular crews and of their class crew. There didn't seem to be much chance.

But the Tech unit between the Decatur and the Dickerson was determined. And so they were towed to the starting buoy with the cheers of their supporters following them.

It was quite a picture. They rowed to a start. There were six men in each of the huge boats built to carry 24 men each and they had a mile of pulling across a choppy harbor.

The Very's light pistol sent up a white light and the pulling began.

A GREAT FINISH.

They got off to what the navy calls a dusty start. That is, there was lots of spray. That's due to the navy. And then they settled and the big boats began to go. It looked for a while as if the Dickerson boat was to trail. It was older and the oars were shorter.

Far off to the right I could see the boat from the Decatur with its load of Tech boys holding its own. A little later it began to go away a bit, with the boats composed of the Yales' and Harvards' three men each school the only one to complete.

At the half-mile the same two boats were in front by a length, but then the old boat from the Dickerson began to move up. No Tech team ever made a finer finish. They made their bid and pulled the heavy boat so fast it could be seen to move with greater speed than any other competitor. Pulling that boat a mile is rugged work, but they finished strong and in third place, while the Decatur boat pulled out in front to win.

And then to make sure, we waited until the signal flags broke from the halyards of the flagship Decatur. And there they were, the numbers, with one Tech boat first and another third.

AND LATER ON.

And later on when the ships had made Gonaive bay, the huge bay of Haiti, there was the firing, and in this the Decatur crew of Tech boys finished first.

It was quite a cruise and quite a triumph for the Tech units. And now they are on the way home with a quiet July Fourth celebrated. And all possess an intense longing to be back home again.

They will arrive in Savannah on the afternoon of Thursday, July 8, and will disembark the next morning for home.

Nats Recall Chase From Lookout Club

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 5.—(P)—Calvin Griffith, president of the Chattanooga Lookouts, said today that Kenneth Chase, left-hand pitcher, has been recalled by the Washington Senators. Chase, who has had several try-outs with the Washington club, has won 5 and lost 10 for the Lookouts.

Piedmont Prexy Here for Game

Dan Hill, president of the Piedmont league, was here yesterday conferring with President Earl Mann, of the Crackers, who represents the minor leagues. Hill said he had a few things to iron out in connection with the Piedmont and is making the trip to Little Rock with the club and President Mann.

Doubles Net Meet Opens at Kennolia

The second annual doubles tennis tournament got under way this afternoon with Red Hill and Glenn Dudley meeting Frank Garrison and Warren Cosby at 5 o'clock. Cortez Suttles and Gordon Moody will meet Stanly Simpson and William Teague.

Takes Dive

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 5.—(P)—Mrs. William Avera, pretty 23-year-old blonde pilot from Jackson, Miss., predicted today a great future for her sex in motorboat racing. The event will be held at Arlington park today, and a spill in the middle of Lake Hamilton.

DIZ AND BRIDGES HELD IN RESERVE BY RIVAL PILOTS

Complete Sellout Is Announced; Nationals Seek Second Straight.

By DILLON GRAHAM. WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—It looks as though a pair of celebrated southpaws, King Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, and Vernon (Goofy) Gomez, of the Yankees, may start the firing in baseball's all-star game Wednesday.

That's just a guess, though, and managers have a quaint habit of crossing up prognosticators. Pilot Joe McCarthy, of the American leaguers, and Skipper Bill Terry, of the National league, squad probably won't make known their selections until late tomorrow.

Old Square-Pants Hubbell will have had five days' rest by game-time. He won his last go and should be in rare fettle. Gomez, the not-so-goofy one now, has been as hot as a firecracker his last two starts. He shut out Philadelphia and Washington, giving the A's one hit and cooling off the Senators yesterday with five.

Taking the game more seriously than ever before, both managers will be eager to get the jump. And a fresh Hubbell appears to most observers a better choice than any of Terry's other five hurriers, all of whom worked Sunday.

A WEEK'S REST. Game little Tommy Bridges, of Detroit, also will have had a week's vacation and Marse Joe may give him the nod.

Dizzy Dean shut out the Reds yesterday but Terry's other pitchers took it on the chin. The Dizzy one beat Cincinnati's Lee Grissom, while the "Jints" whipped Brooklyn's Van Lingle Mungo. The Cubs beat Pittsburgh's Cy Blanton and the Bees knocked out Philadelphia's Bucky Walters.

It's a good bet that Dean and Hubbell will work two shifts. There have been whispers, however, that Terry might do a right-about-face and toss Mungo's fireball at the American leaguers right off the bat, leaving Dizzy and Carl to finish.

Anxious to get back on the winning track after last year's defeat by the National leaguists, their only victory in the four "dream games"—the placid, roundout McCarthy seems likely to play his ace at the start.

MOPPERS UP. This would leave him Bridges and Chicago's Monty Stratton, who is in winning stride Sunday, to mop up, along with Wilb Bob Grove, of Boston; Wes Ferrell, of Washington; and Mel Harder, of Cleveland. Harder has won one all-star game, and the experienced Grove will be a handy man to have around.

While baseball enthusiasts speculated on the strategy of the rival managers, the Washington club announced a complete ticket sell-out, promising a crowd of 32,000. It was said approximately 3,000 standing-room tickets, at $1.10, would be sold just prior to the game.

A heavy rain fell today, but officials said better weather could be expected Wednesday.

WALKER BOXES CALLWELL HERE

Boasting a brilliant record for his two years' fighting in Europe, Bearcat Obie Walker, slugging colored heavyweight, will return to the home wars when he battles Jess Callwell, New York boxer, in the ten-round feature of Promoter Cleve Roby's 40-round boxing card tonight at the West End arena.

Dropping only one fight in his career, Obie has amassed 127 victories, including numerous knockouts. Callwell, who is making his debut here, is a veteran of many battles.

For the semi-final, Promoter Roby will offer Sluggo White, sensational colored lightweight, of Athens, Ga., against Tommy Briscoe, of Macon, Ga., considered by many to be the outstanding lightweight of the south.

Straight E Pryor, of Atlanta, will meet stiff opposition in his six-round main preliminary with Floyd Evans, of Macon. Tom Callaway, hard-punching slugger of Macon, is to swap punches with Jabbing Fouts, of Atlanta, in a four-rounder.

Tommy Lee, Macon, meets Kid Russell, of Atlanta, in another four-rounder. Two local leads will be seen in action in a main event while six others will fight it out in a battle royal, which opens the program at 8 o'clock.

The End arena is located at the intersection of Whitehall, Peters and Park streets.

Rex Flag Annexes Empire Handicap

NEW YORK, July 5.—(P)—Mrs. Vian's Rex Flag, gelded son of Omar Khayyam, today won the Empire City handicap, $10,000 added, for three-year-olds. John Hay Whitney's Flying Scot was second and the Silver State Stable's No Dice third.

Corinto Captures Arlington Handicap

CHICAGO, July 5.—(P)—Corinto, running as an entry for Mrs. Emil Denemark, of Chicago, captured the Starks and Stripp handicap at Arlington park today, defeating Infantry by a length and a half with Sir Jim James third.

GERMAN DRIVER WINS CUP RACE BEFORE 70,000

Rosemeyer Averages 82.564 M.P.H. for 300 Miles, Winning $20,000.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

WESTBURY, N. Y., July 5.—(P)—Seventy thousand spectators today saw Bernd Rosemeyer, the blond bombshell from the lush banks of the Rhine, speed his silver-nosed auto union racer to an exciting triumph in the rich George Vanderbilt cup race.

Giving a flawless performance in his flawless car, the 27-year-old Teuton streaked over the 300-mile distance in 3:38, an average of 82.564 miles per hour, to win by a scant 51.7 seconds over his closest pursuer, Richard Seaman, of England, who had a great chance to win until he was forced into the pits for more fuel with only one lap to go.

Rex Mays, of Glendale, Cal., finished third to improve the American showing over last year's inaugural which was a walkover for the foreign contingent. Driving a rebuilt Miller Special, Mays did some remarkable driving through the pretzel-shaped bends to traverse the distance in 3:44.38. Like the rest of the American pilots, he was unable to match his car against the foreign cars which streaked down the straightaways at speeds from 145 to 159 miles per hour.

OTHER WINNERS.

In fourth place came another German in another Auto Union car, Ernst Delius, while Giuseppe Farina, of Italy, finished fifth. The race was run without a single accident to neck or limb although only 16 of the starting field of 30 was able to finish because of motor trouble and broken mechanisms.

Tazio Nuvolari, of Italy, winner last year with an average of only 65.998 miles per hour, was eliminated after 16 laps with motor trouble but returned as a relief driver for Farina and greatly shared in his fifth-place victory. Rudolf Caracciola, of Germany, who fought Rosemeyer for the lead in the early stages of the race, also was forced out after 21 laps.

Other winners were: Sixth, Joe Thorne, New York, 3:59.56; seventh, Russ Snowberger, Wilmington, Del., 4:03.47; eighth, Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, 4:04.03; ninth, Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, 4:08; tenth, Herb Aron, of Glassport, Pa., 4:17.18. Billy Winn, rated as one of the foremost American contenders, was forced out with a broken crankshaft on the ninth lap.

Speer Offers New Faces On Bill

A great number of wrestling fans are members of the fair sex. Promoter Frank Speer knows that and he also knows how quickly women tire of things such as hats and dresses and even husbands. The young matchmaker reckons that the ladies would like to see some new faces on his wrestling shows, so he is doing something about it.

With the exception of Roland Kirchmyer and Cowboy Luttrell, who feature Wednesday's card at the ball park, all principals are virtual strangers heretofore. Eddie Newman, the young New Yorker, who meets Elmer Guthrie, of Texas, in the semi-final, appeared here quite often several years ago, but is considered a new face, as is his opponent, Guthrie, who wrestled here only once before in his life.

Big Boy Nelson, of Kansas City, billed against Nick Ellich in the 30-minute opener, has never before grappled in the south. He is reputed to be rougher than Sunday town rival, Joe Cox, which means Luttrell will have to look to his honors as top villain of these parts.

Lakewood Races Postponed---Rain

Rain Monday caused a postponement of the international champi ship automobile race at Lakewood park. A heavy, rain-late Sunday caused all of the program to be postponed and an all-morning rain Monday washed out the second day's program.

Races will be held next Sunday afternoon, when a heavy program of some eight events will be run.

He Hit One for His Home Town

Marshall Mauldin was at the bat in the ninth yesterday. Two men were out. A teammate was on base and the Crackers trailed, 4-6. Nearly seven thousand Atlanta fans yelled deliciously for the home-town boy to hit; just a single would help matters along. Marshall thought of a better plan. He belted one into the left-field stands to tie the game that the Crackers were to win in the tenth. It was perhaps the season's most dramatic blow, the one Marshall hit.

When a Hill Climbs-- That Is Really News

Johnny's Bat Mark Jumps Thirty-Three Points in Eleven Days; Attracting Scouts.

By JACK TROY. The National league scout who recently professed a liking for Johnny Hill, Cracker third baseman from Douglasville, will doubtless be pleased to see the latest figures.

Johnny Hill now is second in Cracker batting and only 10 points behind Taft Wright, Chattanooga, fifth in rank among Southern league batsmen.

Not only is Hill's hitting sensational, but his fielding is just as impressive.

Johnny Hill was batting .313 on June 27. Then he went on a batting rampage. Starting June 28, he has hit safely in ten straight games, raising his average to its present estimable mark of .346.

GREAT STREAK. During his streak, Hill has gone to bat 33 times, scored 10 runs and batted out 20 hits, including six doubles and two triples.

And I would like to point out that they're WALKING Johnny Hill these days to get to somebody else.

Ask Memphis about that. The Crackers tried walking him to get to Buster Chatham, and the Little Iron Man showed his appreciation by twice breaking up a ball game. They walked him again yesterday in the 10th.

Less than two months ago there was talk about Johnny Hill being "through." He was doing his best to play with a pair of legs that were cramped by charley horses.

Few knew that. TAKES CRITICISM. Johnny Hill took the criticism in stride and has met it with a brand of play that marks him as big league timbre.

That National league scout—Tommy Leach, of the Boston Bees—may be expected back in town before long to watch Johnny Hill, his prize prospect, in action.

When a Hill climbs—that's news.

MAULDIN TOPS RALLY IN TENTH. WITH HOME RUN

Five-Run Spree Ties Count; Atlanta Wins in Tenth.

By JACK TROY.

The champion Crackers knocked Memphis out of first place yesterday by staging a murderous ninth-inning rally to overcome a five-run lead and go on to win in the 10th, 7 to 6, before 6,795 wildly applauding fans.

The victory, ending the series, was Atlanta's fourth straight and reduced Memphis' lead over the Crackers to six games. The Chicks came here with a 10-game lead.

The sensational victory was snatched from hopeless defeat. With two men out, the Crackers were four runs behind. Ace Parker's pinch-hitting triple, Hugh Luby's single and Marshall Mauldin's home run in the left field stands tied it up, stunned the Chicks and left crafty Walter Stewart wobbling in the box.

The Crackers used four pitchers. Leonard started and retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Trexler relieved and was ineffective. Bill Beckman carried on for a couple of innings and then Al Williams finished. Beckman did some nice relief pitching, as did Williams.

WILLIAMS WINS. And so it was Williams pitching the 10th, who got credit for the victory.

Manager Billy Southworth used every pitcher he had in this series, but the best he could get was a 10-inning tie in the second game of the Independence Day double-header. Twice the Crackers knocked Mike Martynik, the league-leading hurler, out of the box.

Rain prevented the holding of the scheduled double-header yesterday, so there will be a couple of twin bills the next time the Chicks come to Atlanta.

Little Rock's victory over Chattanooga sent the Travelers back into first place by a game and seven games ahead of Atlanta.

OUTSTANDING MAULDIN

The Chicks scored single runs in the first and second, one more in the seventh, two in the eighth and the last one in the ninth.

WIN IN 10TH.

A combination of circumstances had prevented Atlanta from scoring but once going into the ninth. But hell hath no fury like a champion scorned, to paraphrase an old phrase, and the two-time champs cut loose in the ninth to tie it up and then win in the 10th. The rally packed all the thrills of an entire game into one inning. The Chicks were stunned and the large crowd didn't quite grasp the significance of it all at first.

The Crackers, very much a threat to win their third straight pennant now that they have conclusively demonstrated their superiority over Memphis, moved on last night to Little Rock for a three-game series. Lefty Moon will pitch the opener tonight. The club goes to Memphis from Little Rock for a four-game set and then returns home for a week's stand.

Yesterday's fine crowd, braving uncertain weather, ran the season's total to 167,632. The Crackers are now only 114 behind.

DOUBLE PLAY.

The first three Chicks got on base in the first inning, but a Cracker double play prevented the scoring of more than one run. Pearson singled to left, Grace walked and Triplett bested out roller to the box. Pearson hit into a double play, Chatham to Luby to Hooks, and Pearson scored on the play. Reese filed to Mauldin.

The Chicks scored their second run on two hits in the second. Howell singled sharply to center and stole second. Haley struck out. Then Blakeney dropped a Texas leaguer in left, Howell scoring. Blakeney was thrown out trying to take second, Rose to Luby. Stewart was thrown out by Leonard.

Big Dutch Leonard was doing pretty well for a sick man. Grace led off the sixth with a triple to

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Edna Carver, pretty young Baltimore manicurist, lives with her widowed mother, Mrs. Carver, who boards with them. Edna, old-fashioned because she is so careful about the boys she goes with, has a secret admirer, David, who is engaged to Brad Dunning, young insurance agent. David Nolan, last of an old aristocratic family, invites Brad and Edna to a dance in celebration of the return after three years in South America of Neil Dane, and asks Brad to bring an extra girl. Edna persuades David to go. There is admiration in David's eyes when he meets Edna. He presents Edna to his mother, Mrs. Nolan, who is sure Edna is the man she has always been waiting to meet. He says that he has spent his vacation at a summer camp when David saved him from drowning. He spent his vacation with his father visiting many parts of the world. After graduating as an engineer he has indulged his wanderlust. Edna is jealous as David dances with Edna. Edna's twin sister, Joanna, who is in New York, is in love with Neil. He takes her home, wants to kiss her but says "Good night, Edna. I wish I had never met you. The next time I see you, I'll kiss you but that would put me in the same category of other men who have kissed the first night and then they out." NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
